Chairman Vinson Plans Rueger Case Action

The House Armed Services Committee will take a new look at the problem of restoring the retired pay of Cdr. Robert B. Rueger, USN-Ret.

The promise of quick Congressional action follows in the wake of a JOURNAL disclosure 28 December that the Navy is attempting to collect $3777.16 from the Rueger family because one Navy office failed to keep another Navy office informed.

Chairman Carl Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Committee told the JOURNAL "it will take legislation" to straighten out the involved affair.

He said he plans to take the matter up

Five General Promotions

The Army has promoted Brig. Gens. Thomas V. Van Natta, who will command the 3d Armored Division in Germany, and Alvin G. Viney, Deputy Chief of Engineers for Military Operations, to temporary major general, effective New Year's Day.

On 22, 23 and 24 December, Cols. Harold Walmsley, Commander of the Chemical Corps Materiel Command, Howard R. Whittaker, Red River Arsenal, Texarkana, Ark., Commander, and George T. Powers, 7th Division Artillery Commander in Korea, were advanced to temporary brigadier general.

Do's And Don'ts On Adoptions

THE JOURNAL has obtained and publishes on Page 18 a detailed guide list of actions that Service families should and should not take in adopting children overseas. THE JOURNAL during recent weeks has been privileged to report also how U. S. Servicemen, their wives and children have helped make this a happy holiday season for scores of thousands of underprivileged youngsters around the world, like the Nationalist Chinese lad pictured above.

Army Leavenworth Selections

The Army has named 515 officers for the 1958-59 Regular Course at the Command and General Staff College, Ft. Leavenworth, Kans. There are also Army selections for Air Force, Navy and foreign schools. Pages 4, 28.

Navy Nurse Promotions Zoom

The Navy has released the names of 1677 staff officers promoted to lieutenant and lieutenant commander, including 698 nurses to lieutenant commander and 96 to lieutenant. Details, Page 6.

Alaskan Command Changes

The strategic Alaskan Command, under Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong, USAF, was an active theater during 1957 with important changes and activities reported by Army, Navy and Air Force units. A year-end report on the joint command is published on Page 11. Also on Page 11 are authoritative income tax guidelines for retired military personnel.

6286 Family Housing Units Set

President Eisenhower has taken action that permits the Services to proceed with construction of 6286 new family housing units at 11 Army, Air Force and Marine Corps bases. Cost is $94.4 millions. Details Page 26.

BoB-DoD Reach Pay Raise Agreement; $518 Million Is The New Pricetag

The Defense Department and the Budget Bureau have agreed on a $518,000,000 military pay raise bill.

It would implement the Cordiner Report and give a six per cent minimum cost-of-living adjustment to all persons on active duty with at least two years service.

Unless the Budget Bureau makes a last minute accommodation to the appeals of Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, the forthcoming pay raise measure will not ask any benefits for persons on the retired lists.

The Pentagon originally proposed a $560,000,000 bill.

Sharp protests have been made to the House and Senate Armed Services Committees by the Retired Officers Association.

BIG defense problems from seemingly small confusions grow.

For want of a nail, the saying goes, much was lost.

The recent Senate Preparedness Subcommittee hearings, soon to be resumed, have revealed the need for reorganizing the Defense Department structure to assure military supremacy over the Soviets. Much more than the horse needs to be saved.

In the Senate and House during the session that starts next week, great emphasis will be placed on the problems of missiles and space weapons.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff setup will come in for detailed examination.

Congress will want to know what is wrong with the Pentagon organization. Demands will be made for changes.

The inquiry possibly should not begin with missiles, satellites and the JCS. The story of inefficiency can be documented—in many cases more sharply—by the unveiling of lower echelon delay, duplication, and indecision.

Take the case of substandard rental reductions. Or the Veterinary Corps controversy.

Military discipline is another area where Pentagon slips are showing.

The Defense Department and the Service can't even get together on the best way to feed Servicemen. Nor how to pay them.

Members of Congress who survey these problems will discover that a root difficulty is the confused staff and command lines from the Defense Department to the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps and back.

That is the obvious shortcoming behind the incredible delay in putting into effect rent cuts, first recommended by President Eisenhower two years ago, for 36,000 families in substandard quarters.

The President's request was fouled up during the 1956 session of Congress because a Navy Assistant Secretary tried to make an end run in the Senate to gain approval for continuation of substandard housing beyond a two-year limit set by the House.

The significant aspect of the problem, in retrospect, is not alone that the Senate's approval of the extension resulted in the refusal by the House to agree to a compromise during the final days of the session, with the consequent

Air Force Completes Augmentation As 4965 More Win Regular Status

The Air Force, moving at an accelerated pace, this week completed its Augmentation Program as 4965 Reservists were designated for regular appointments.

They are in the five years service category and below, as well as WAF (76) and Chaplains (165).

The line officer appointments were as follows by year groups:

3 Years—773, Rated, 546.

2 Years—939, Rated, 662.

1 Year—423, Rated, 122.

Below 1 Year—34 (all Non-Rated).

The Air Force named a total of 17,943 Reservists for regular ranks, hitting almost exactly its announced forecast of 18,000 appointments from among more than 59,000 applications.

In the latest list, 3781 appointments were in the rank of permanent first lieutenant. The remainder were second lieutenants. Appointment as a first lieutenant requires three years service as of 31 May 1958.

Dull Spots In Pentagon Armor

From preceding page—

cost to Service families of more than $1 million a month.

What is pertinent here is that the Army and Air Force were willing to accept the House version of the bill, and presumably the Defense Department was too.

The present substandard rental law, passed this past August, provides a two-year limitation.

The aim of the House Armed Services Committee is to force the Defense Department to eliminate all substandard housing as quickly as possible.

It was not bad enough that the Pentagon fell over its big feet during the 1956 session of Congress.

The confusion was compounded by the failure of the Defense Department and the Services to get together on rules for implementing the law passed in August until December.

This $4 million delay occurred notwithstanding the fact that during Congressional testimony each of the Services documented the need for substandard rental cuts down to the last unit.

Authority Lines Snarled

The rent cut delays, against a contrasting background of appeals from commanders in the field for action to improve career incentives, are the result of snarled lines of authority in the Pentagon.

Directly responsible to the Secretary of Defense, who has full authority for "direction and control" of the Services, for all housing problems is the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Properties and Installations.

But ever since the Department of Defense was created 10 years ago, the Secretaries of Defense have made it a strong point to say that their Assistant Secretaries are "staff" men, who set policies, but who have no direct responsibility for executing them.

The Services, it has been said time and again, are charged with actual operations.

On the housing front, the Services could not put rent cuts into effect without a directive from the Defense Department, and the Defense Department could not take action, it has said, until coordination was completed with the Services.

It took from August to December to complete that coordination. Then another problem developed.

The Budget Bureau had to be consulted. As this issue of THE JOURNAL goes to press, the rent cuts that President Eisenhower sought in January 1956 have yet to be put into effect in January 1958.

Who is responsible? It's hard to say definitely.

This office in the Defense Department can point to that office in the Services, and vice versa.

"Turncoat" Case Recalled

The confusion in the "direction and control" of the Services sometimes can be illuminated by an instance in which action was not delayed, but was ordered summarily.

Take the case of the "turncoat POW's" in Korea. The Army, which is responsible for administering the Uniform Code of Military Justice for all soldiers, took the position that these men could not be given dishonorable discharges without a court-martial.

The General Counsel of the Department of Defense, another of the so-called nine "vice presidents", thought otherwise. He recommended to then Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson that the soldiers be discharged without a court-martial.

That is what the Secretary of Defense ordered the Secretary of the Army to do.

Related to the "turncoat" discharges is the fact that the Defense Department and the Services have been saying for more than two years that changes are needed in the Uniform Code of Military Justice, particularly from the approach of restoring to commanders in the field more responsibility for administering discipline.

As the law now stands, it is possible for a commanding officer to reprimand one of his officers for a relatively minor offense for which an enlisted man must go through a time-consuming court-martial, with more of a blemish on his record than is the case for an officer who has committed the same offense.

Once, the Pentagon had managed to get agreement on a bill that would change the UCMJ; in fact the draft of such a bill was published in THE JOURNAL on 28 May 1955.

But during the 1956 and 1957 session of Congress, the Pentagon was not able to solidify a position on the UCMJ. A bill is ready at last for action in 1958.

Confusion has reared its head at every turn during the past two years in the matter of what to do about the Veterinary Corps in the Army and Air Force.

"Horse Doctor" Charge

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, early in his tenure, wondered aloud "why the Air Force needs horse doctors." Subsequently he decided to transfer many Veterinary Corps functions to the Department of Agriculture.

A first effort to accomplish this failed. Subsequently Secretary Wilson directed that this be done, although the House Armed Services Committee raised doubts that his "direction and control" of the Services gave him authority to abolish an organization created by Congress.

It's not clear whether the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medical) recommended the end of the Veterinary Corps or whether Secretary Wilson was acting on his own, but it's no secret that the Army and Air Force strongly opposed the move. The Navy, which has no Veterinary Corps, said it would be all right.

Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy, as one of his first actions in office—before he had sent any communication to Congress covering such problems as missiles, space weapons or the JCS—advised the House Armed Services Committee that he was going to delay Mr. Wilson's order on the Veterinary Corps until there had been an opportunity to counsel with Congress.

THE JOURNAL has contended that there is an important need for the Veterinary Corps, particularly with the increased role of veterinarians in advanced science projects, related to effects of atomic weapons and space research.

Whatever the merits of the case, the fact is that the Veterinary Corps issue has been kicking around the Pentagon for about four years from the time Mr. Wilson first questioned the need of military veterinarians, and there is no final decision yet.

Proficiency Pay Delay

Something obviously is wrong in how things get done, or more correctly don't get done, when a $40 million proficiency pay plan for enlisted men, promised by Secretary Wilson in May 1957, still is stuck at the Pentagon in January 1958.

The Services apparently were unable to reach immediate accord on how to implement the pay plan. And at the Department of Defense level, disagreements have developed between the Assistant Secretary for Manpower, Personnel and Reserve Forces and the Comptroller.

The Comptroller's role needs a measure of analysis. He obviously acts in something more than a "staff" function, a policy maker and advisor, when he apportions money almost on a day to day basis to the Services for military maintenance and operations, that Congress approved and funded.

It's impossible to see how a Comptroller could do his job effectively unless he takes over some "line" responsibilities. And the same is true for all the other Assistant Secretaries.

Congress wants to know who is to blame for confusion in the missile program? That's admittedly a hard problem.

Perhaps it would be easier to find an answer concerning who is to blame for the failure to act on a recommendation made by the President and approved by Congress to permit reduced substandard rentals for military families—or would it?

CONGRESS CONVENES; CNO SPEAKS; AF NAMES

NEXT week's issue of THE JOURNAL will bring highlights of the start of the new Congressional session. With Senate and House Armed Services Committees busy inquiring into the overall effectiveness of the Nation's defense posture and the top-level military structure and vital personnel legislation—including a pay raise—set for early hearings, military men and their families will want to follow closely the comprehensive Capitol coverage planned for the weeks ahead.

Admiral Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, speaks at the National Press Club 6 January. His address will be reported in detail next week.

More names of new Air Force Regulars also will be published in next week's issue; as well as selections for promotion to temporary captain in the Air Force. More than 4,000 are scheduled for early release to start the fiscal '58 advancements.

Admiral Wright Discusses Atomic Charge, Hedges On Nuclear Carrier-Sub Choice

The Atlantic Fleet would not employ atomic depth charges in defensive situations, according to Admiral Jerauld Wright, Commander-In-Chief.

In response to a newsmen's query at a Pentagon press conference on 30 December, Admiral Wright characterized the Navy's recently developed atomic depth charge, "Betty," as an offensive weapon.

Admiral Wright said that in event of an attack by the Russians the Atlantic Fleet would meet it with conventional anti-submarine weapons.

The Admiral said that "the tremendous potency" of the A-charge does not permit its use by surface ships.

At present, only planes are capable of delivering the weapon. He said delivery of the atomic depth charge requires "a high degree of tactical coordination between planes and ships."

Admiral Wright, who is also Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic, stated that although his Fleet has made numerous sightings of Soviet submarines "reasonably close" to the Eastern seaboard, the sightings disclose "no pattern of interest on the part of the Russians" in the vicinity of Capt Canaveral, Fla., the missile test center.

Commenting on the report that Congress will kill plans for construction of a second 85,000 ton atomic-powered aircraft carrier and instead use the funds for a buildup of the Navy's undersea fleet, Admiral Wright cited the need for balance. "The Navy," he said, "could not function without a balanced fleet."

The Admiral hedged on choosing between atomic submarines and atomic carriers if a choice was necessary between the two.

Asked if he felt he had enough carriers to do the job assigned his command in the Atlantic, Admiral Wright said the present number is "inadequate."

In June, the Navy will shift the Forrestal-class carrier USS Ranger to the Pacific Fleet. This will leave the Atlantic Fleet with six attack carriers. The Pacific Fleet will have eight.

The Admiral expressed the view that he would prefer to trust scientific civilians with the task of setting up an Academy of Science. "It would be better," he said, "to explore the civilian field rather than to build up a scientific corps in the Service."

Chairman Vinson Plans Rueger Action

with the Kilday Subcommittee as soon as Congress reconvenes on 7 January.

It is expected that the subcommittee will have a draft measure ready for consideration this month.

Commander Rueger was retired from the Navy in 1955 after almost 30 years service, was convicted on a manslaughter charge the following year and served 16 months of a five year sentence in the Virginia State Penitentiary.

Upon the recommendation of the Navy, he was dropped from the retired rolls by order of President Eisenhower.

The Journal protested the action, citing the fact that retired pay is "earned pay," which cannot be legally withdrawn in such cases.

Chairman Vinson directed a subcommittee, headed by Representative Paul J. Kilday (D-Tex.) to "make a complete inquiry into all of the questions involved and determine whether or not we should institute early legislative action."

This was before the disclosure concerning the attempt to recover the pay that went to the Rueger family while he was in prison.

The powerful House Chairman questioned "the fairness of any decision which drops a retired officer from the rolls and deprives not only him but his dependents of any further retirement benefits."

THE JOURNAL learned meanwhile that the Navy had continued to pay Commander Rueger because the Navy Finance Center, due to what the Navy describes as "unknown circumstances," had not been advised to stop his checks.

When it discovered the error some eight months later, as a result of a parole officer's routine inquiry, the Navy said it would take steps to get the money back.

THE JOURNAL's account of this development, which it said, "cruelly compounded the injury" previously inflicted on Commander Rueger and his family was widely publicized across the nation.

Congressman Kilday was not available for comment on the new turn, but it can be expected that any legislation which comes out of his subcommittee probably will be general legislation designed to loss of retired pay in any such circumstance, rather than "special relief" legislation for Commander Rueger.

It appears likely, however, that it probably also would have the effect of nullifying the Navy's demand that Commander Rueger return the $3777.16 which it already has paid him.

Indecision and Controversy Mark R&D Effort During Decade of Unification

Food Plan Falters, Page 27

THE Senate Preparedness Subcommittee report on missile hearings and the forthcoming House Armed Services Committee inquiry into the Nation's defense posture will place great emphasis on the Pentagon's setup for research and development.

What will be shown is that a decade of unification has been marked in the R&D field by an initial lack of top-echelon attention and subsequently by indecision and controversy.

It is not startling, the R&D record being what it is, that the post of Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering currently happens to be filled by a "recess" appointee, Dr. Paul D. Foote.

He had "conflict of interest" problems in winning Senate confirmation before the last session of Congress adjourned. Many Pentagon observers, noting that the authority of his office has been curtailed with disclosure by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy of plans for an Advanced Projects Research Agency, feel that Dr. Foote will resign his post in the near future.

Resignations No Novelty

This would be no novelty in the R&D program.

Dr. Foote's predecessor, Frank D. Newbury, was in charge of the R&D effort only from 18 March 1957 to 17 May 1957, when he quit.

Mr. Newbury, who had been Assistant Secretary of Defense for Applications Engineering from 18 August 1953 to 17 March 1957, won out over Dr. Clifford C. Furnas, Assistant Secretary for R&D, when it was decided to merge the two offices into the new office of Assistant Secretary for Research and Engineering.

No Assistants Before '53

It had not been until President Eisenhower's Reorganization Plan No. 6 in 1953, which followed the Rockefeller Commission study, that the Defense Department had an Assistant Secretary for either Applications Engineering or Research and Development.

After the two offices were created, there was continual controversy because neither of the two Assistant Secretaries—nor the Armed Forces—could ever be sure where the responsibilities of one began and ended and where the other's responsibilities began and ended.

Dr. Furnas replaced then Assistant Secretary of Defense Donald A. Quarles. Interestingly, Mr. Quarles left the Assistant Secretary's job 13 August 1955 to become Secretary of the Air Force, but Dr. Furnas did not report to the Pentagon until 5 December.

The same situation developed when Mr. Newbury quit as Assistant Secretary of Defense for Research and Engineering.

He left in May, but Dr. Foote did not take over the responsibilities until September.

The prestige of a Pentagon office hardly is enhanced by its repeatedly being left vacant or filled on a "recess" basis.

Service Stress Differs

In the Services, the Air Force has topped its R&D effort with a civilian Assistant Secretary, and on the military side with the Air Research and Development Command.

The Army, lacking a vacancy for an Assistant Secretary for R&D—it has said many times in the past that legislation would be asked for such a vacancy, but the Defense Department and the Budget Bureau have said no—currently has a "Director" of Research and Development, Mr. William H. Martin.

Responsible to Mr. Martin, as a result of a reorganization that took place in October 1955, there is a Chief of Research

BATTLE OF THE ROCKETS

An example of the complicated R&D effort within the Department of Defense is cited by Dr. Homer E. Newell, jr., Superintendent of Atmospheric Astrophysics at the Naval Research Laboratory.

Recounting some NRL problems before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, Dr. Newell said the Laboratory found that one approach to rocket sounding which promised greatly reduced costs was the development of Arcon and Iris rockets.

He said the Navy wouldn't support the program, so NRL got an outside sponsor who agreed to foot the bill.

The Defense Department and Budget Bureau, when informed of this maneuver, advised the sponsor to leave R&D matters to the Pentagon. But the Defense Department didn't give NRL any funds for the program.

Subsequently, after efforts had "ground to a halt," the Army decided to pick up the Arcon and Iris work. When the Navy learned this, officials decided to let NRL go ahead with the program.

Dr. Newell said the Arcon and Iris will be cheaper than rockets of comparable performance and are "genuine technological breakthroughs" but, nevertheless, "they must struggle for their very existence."

and Development, Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

He was given that title because again, as on the civilian side, there was no authority to make him a Deputy Chief of Staff.

The Air Force, unlike the Army, does have a Deputy Chief of Staff for Research and Development, Lt. Gen. Donald L. Putt, at the Pentagon, in addition to the Air Research and Development Command, which has headquarters at Baltimore, Md.

The Air Force's aggressive R&D efforts brought Pentagon R&D disputes into public view in February 1956 when Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Trevor Gardner resigned amid sharp criticism of Defense Department policies.

Richard C. Horner was made "Acting" Assistant Secretary that month. It was not until July 1957—17 months later—that the "Acting" designation was removed.

Navy Lacks Assistant Secretary

Civilian control of research and development in the Navy is under the Assistant Secretary for Air Garrison Norton.

As far as can be learned, the Navy has never proposed, as has the Army, that it be authorized an Assistant Secretary for R&D, which the Air Force has.

The Navy's top military officer in the research field is VADM. Thomas S. Combs. He holds the posts of Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Fleet Operations, Readiness and Research and Development.

In addition, there is an Office of Naval Research. It is headed by a two-star officer (RADM. Rawson Bennett), a relatively junior flag officer. Under this office is the Naval Research Laboratory, but, as was recently pointed out by a top NRL scientist, it is at the bottom of the Navy's R&D command structure.

The Marine Corps in June 1956 established an Assistant Chief of Staff for R&D. Brig. Gen. Samuel R. Shaw holds the post at present.

There is only one action which may deter Congress from demanding changes in the Pentagon's R&D set-up. That would be if Secretary of Defense McElroy moves first.

LT. GEN. B. M. BRYAN, First U. S. Army Commander, (right) presenting the First Army Certificate of Achievement to Col. James E. Maloney, Fort Jay Commander, who is leaving for a new assignment as Chief of the U. S. Military Mission to Honduras at Tegucigalpa in Central America.

Pay Bill Reaches Hill This Month

tion and other groups following THE JOURNAL's disclosure (7 December) that the Budget Bureau had rejected any adjustment for retired military persons.

It was learned that Budget Bureau officials are working closely with Defense Department experts in a final draft of the measure. This will speed the coordination processing and make it possible for the bill to reach Congress shortly after President Eisenhower delivers his State of the Union Message on 9 January.

The Chief Executive is expected to take that occasion to urge a major revision in military pay structures by implementing the Cordiner Plan.

The Cordiner Committee, under President Ralph J. Cordiner of the General Electric Company, recommended a "pay for merit" approach to replace the present emphasis on longevity.

The Committee's proposals would mean substantial pay increases for about 39 per

WON'T HELP PAY

The Pentagon's forthcoming pay legislation has not been helped by the Department of Defense's prolonged delay in answering a series of manpower questions posed last July by Senator John Stennis (D-Miss).

Senator Stennis happens to be Chairman of the Armed Services Subcommittee that is looking into the Cordiner legislation.

He asked the Defense Department last July to provide him with details concerning the ramifications of the Cordiner Report.

Weeks went by while the Defense Department coordinated first with the Services and then tried to get guidance from the Budget Bureau.

In this case, it was BoB which was largely responsible for the delays.

Last month, Senator Stennis protested that he had received only sketchy interim replies. More information was made available, but after more than five months he still lacks detailed answers to his questions.

cent of active duty personnel.

The Pentagon and Budget Bureau are in agreement that the pay increases for officers and warrant officers should be phased over a four year period.

At the Pentagon, a special Defense Department Task Force has accumulated voluminous data touching on pay and other personnel problems and has given Secretary McElroy a detailed briefing on the retention problem.

His associates say that the Secretary is ready to go to Capitol Hill and to document the urgency of remedial pay legislation just as soon as President Eisenhower outlines the problem in his forthcoming communication.

It is recalled that Secretary McElroy, questioned about his pay views when the Senate Armed Services Committee was considering his nomination for the top Pentagon post, told the Senators that he would give "sympathetic consideration" to the Cordiner Report.

Gen. Thatcher of AF Gets Bonn MAAG; Army's Gen. Ruffner To Chicago Post

Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Thatcher, USAF, will move 1 April from duty as Vice Commander of U. S. Air Forces Europe, under General Frank F. Everest, USAF, to succeed Maj. Gen. Clark L. Ruffner, USA, as Chief of the MAAG in Bonn, Germany.

General Ruffner, who has been head of the MAAG since March 1956 after command of the 2d Armored Division, goes to a new post with the Fifth Army, Chicago, Ill.

General Ruffner will replace Maj. Gen. William H. Nutter as Deputy Fifth Army Commander under Lt. Gen. W. H. Arnold. General Nutter's new assignment has not yet been announced.

In making General Thatcher's appointment known on 27 December, the Defense Department said the shift "is in accordance with the Joint Chiefs of Staff policy of rotating in certain countries the MAAG Chiefs among the flag and general officers of the Services."

There had been hope that the West German Army would reach an early strength of 270,000 men in 10 divisions.

At present, the strength is about half that figure, with three divisions and a corps headquarters.

Army Sets 1 Feb. Garb Deadline

The "RIF" situation cleared—there will be no new officer forceouts—the Army has set 1 February 1958 as the date by which active duty male commissioned and warrant officers must own and wear the Green and Blue uniforms.

Originally, the deadline was last October. This was extended when manpower cuts were announced in order to prevent hardships.

For general duty wear, 1 February, in appropriate season, the Army Green uniform will be required on and after that date. For field duty, prescribed field clothing will be worn.

For general off-duty wear when the uniform is worn, the Army Blue uniform will be required.

Officers and warrant officers scheduled for separation from active duty before the beginning of the 1958 summer season (or 1 May, 1958 in areas where the winter uniform is prescribed for year-round wear) are still exempted from the new uniform requirements. They may wear either the olive drab uniform or the Army Green until separation.

USAR officers and warrant officers not on extended active duty or six months active duty for training will be required to own and wear the Army Green uniform on and after 1 October, 1959.

No requirement has been established for such personnel to own or wear the Army Blue uniform.

BOND CANVASS

The Army Savings Bond Program person-to-person canvass has been scheduled at all activities for March, April and May.

The canvass, says Cir 608-8, should not normally exceed two the circular, should be reported weeks. The dates of canvass, says by activity commanders to major commanders at least 30 days in advance.

The aim of the canvass is to indoctrinate all nonparticipants on the merits of the payroll purchase of Savings Bonds.

Army Mountaineer Will Seek Everest Summit

Capt. William D. Hackett, an Army expert on mountain and cold weather warfare, will join a party of eight American mountaineers in the first U. S. attempt to climb Mt. Everest in Nepal.

Scheduled to begin in April 1959, the climb will follow the southern route successfully used by two other expeditions. Ten expeditions to reach the summit of mountain had failed.

The Everest team will train next summer on a trip to Alaska and the Yukon. While there they plan to make the second ascent of 16,208-foot Mt. Sanford and find a new route up 19,850-foot Mt. Logan, Canada's tallest peak.

SAVING WORDS

for officers of the Reserve Corps and the National Guard now on active duty

Under the planned reduction of the U. S. Armed Forces, many Reserve Corps and National Guard officers and warrant officers will soon be released from active duty.

Officers of the Reserve Corps and National Guard who retain their commissions or warrants after separation may continue their insurance with USAA provided they were insured with USAA while on active duty. If membership is not acquired before separation from the service, they are not eligible for USAA's money-saving insurance.

USAA provides insurance to a preferred risk group at the lowest possible cost because it operates as a non-profit association with all funds pooled for mutual protection and service. No agents are employed and selling is done by mail. The savings made by USAA each year are returned in liberal dividends to the association's members.

If you expect to be released from active duty soon and plan to retain your commission or warrant, insure with USAA now while on active duty so that you may enjoy the liberal savings that this dependable insurance offers.

Fill in the coupon below and get full particulars.

Navy OK's Unit Identification Marks; Kills "Buck Rogers" Wings; Other Changes

Permission to wear unit identification marks—similar to the ship-name sleeve mark—soon will be given to Navy enlisted men assigned to aircraft squadrons, aircraft training units, guided missile groups, special weapons units, afloat staffs, air wing staffs and air group staffs.

At the same time, the Navy will prescribe a new aircrewman breast insignia as replacement for the "Buck Rogers" combat aircrewman wings.

Other changes will include relocation of "institutional" serial numbers on work uniforms, tilting of Navy "E" stripes, and clarification of rules concerning the wearing of the uniform by Reservists.

The changes, recommended by the Permanent Naval Uniform Board 12 November, were approved by Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates, Jr., 18 December, and become official when they are incorporated into the Naval Uniform Manual.

Details of the forthcoming changes are:

Unit Identification Marks

All enlisted men below the rank of chief petty officer, permanently assigned to a type organization shown below, are authorized to wear a unit identifying sleeve mark on the right sleeve of the dress blue and undress white jumper. The marks are made up of $\frac{1}{4}$ " white block lettering on a downward-curving $\frac{1}{2}$ " blue background strip. The marks must be worn parallel to the top edge of the lower row of shoulder sleeve stitching $3\frac{3}{4}$ " down and affixed with color-fast thread.

The list of authorized units and examples of the lettering are:

Unit	Sample
Commissioned Ship	U. S. S. TANG
Aircraft Squadron	PATRON 50
Mobile Construction Battalion	MCB 7
Afloat Staff	COMCARDIV 1
Air Wing Staff	COMFAIRWG 1
Air Group Staff	COMCARAIRGRU 1
Fleet Airborne Training Unit	FABTULANT 1
Guided Missile Group	GMGRU 1
Special Weapons Group	SWULANT

Each man who reports to duty with any of the above organizations will be issued unit marks. When the man leaves the unit, he will be required to return the marks.

Aircrewman Insignia

The new insignia, to be worn only by members of regular aircrews, is a gold-colored metal breast device. The wings extend from a circular center which contains the block letters "AC" superimposed upon an anchor. The width between the tips of the wings is $2\frac{3}{4}$ "; the circle diameter is $\frac{3}{4}$ "; and the anchor $\frac{1}{2}$ " high.

The effect of this change is to kill the old combat crewman insignia which some aircraft squadron commanders feel has a "Buck Rogers" appearance. One commander described the old device as resembling something which might be found in a box of Cracker Jacks.

In the future, there will be two types of devices to denote affiliation with an air crew. First, the new "AC" wings, and second, the distinguishing sleeve mark. The metal wings will be authorized only for wear by enlisted men who are actually members of an air crew. The cloth mark can be worn by any qualified enlisted man even if he is not currently assigned to an air crew.

In other words, the metal wings will show that a man is actually performing the duties of an aircrewman, while the cloth mark shows that a man has qualified for such duties.

Both devices may be worn by a man actually assigned to an air crew.

Ownership Markings

The requirement that enlisted men stencil their service number in a conspicuous place on the chambray shirt and dungaree trousers has been discontinued. Similarly, the rule stating that both the name and service number be conspicuous on undershirts has been killed. The revised regulation results from numerous complaints from enlisted men that the conspicuous serial numbers and names smacked of a "penal institution."

Originally, the requirement was issued to make it easier for ship commanders to identify men under their command.

The new rule permits ownership markings to be placed on the chambray shirt-tail, inside the waistband of the dungaree trousers, and near the bottom of the undershirt. This completely eliminates the requirement for a visible serial number. The only remaining requirement is that the last name be plainly visible in a prominent location. In most cases unit commanders will prescribe that the last name be placed above the shirt pocket.

Navy "E's"

In the future subsequent awards of the Navy "E" will be indicated by diagonal stripes placed under the original award at a 45 degree angle. Currently, additional awards are shown by horizontal stripes. This change is made to be in consonance with the diagonal stripes authorized for length of service and group-rate marks. When more than one Navy "E" is awarded to a ship, the honor will be painted on the ship's exterior, the bar tilted instead of horizontal.

Uniform Use By Reserves

The Navy rules that officers and enlisted men of the Naval Reserve not on active duty will wear the uniform when:

- Associated with or attached to a pay unit of the Naval Reserve and attending a drill.
- Performing active duty for training with or without pay and the while traveling in connection with training.
- Performing duties under appropriate orders.

The largest selection of Marine Corps photographs ever shown went on display in Washington, D. C., 3 January.

The six-week exhibit, in the Department of Commerce Lobby, 14th Street between E Street and Constitution Ave., N. W., includes more than 100 of the best photographs taken by Marine Corps photographers in both battle and training.

On 3 February the showing will move to the concourse of the Pentagon Building for a two week stay.

698 Nurses Win LCdr. Stripes; Largest Group In History; Staff Bds. Pick 1,677

Navy Staff Corps selection boards have chosen 1,677 Regular and active duty Reserve lieutenants and lieutenants (Jg) for advancement.

Of the total number named, 1,287 move up to lieutenant commander and 390 don lieutenant bars.

Highlighting the Navy action was the naming of 698 Nurses for promotion to lieutenant commander. This is the largest number of nurses ever named for two and one-half stripe rank during the 49-year history of the Corps, including the WWII era when "bloc promotions" were the order of the day.

The previous high was set in October 1954 when 168 were tapped for lieutenant commander.

This year, the Nurse selection boards operated under provisions of the Nurses Career Incentive Act which makes it possible for larger numbers of nurses to serve in the ranks of captain, commander and lieutenant commander.

A story telling of the promotion opportunities for Nurses in the Army and

Marine Corps Sends Officers To Sea Duty

Capt. Clifford H. Johnson, reporting from the 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif., succeeds Capt. Frank R. Koethe as Commanding Officer of the Marine Detachment aboard the heavy cruiser USS Helena.

Captain Koethe has been reassigned to the 2d Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N. C.

Capt. Joseph J. N. Gambardella, assigned to the cruiser USS Salem, has been named to lead the detachment aboard the cruiser USS Des Moines. He relieves Capt. Billy J. Hill who has been detached and ordered to the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va.

Capt. William M. Clelland reports as detachment commander aboard the amphibious force flagship USS Pocono, replacing Capt. George W. Houck.

1st Lt. Dan A. Bench reports to the detachment on the cruiser USS Rochester. Reporting from the 1st Marine Division, he relieves 1st Lt. David C. Jenkins who goes to the detachment at the Marine Barracks, Naval Base, Bremerton, Wash.

1st Lt. James A. Schumacher shifts to the USS Saint Paul detachment as relief for 1st Lt. James L. Owens. Lieutenant Owens has been assigned duty at the Marine Barracks, Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, Va.

1st Lt. Richard T. Spooner, assigned to the USS Saint Paul detachment, goes to the USS Macon detachment. He succeeds 1st Lt. Joseph P. Brower who has been detailed to Marine Corps Schools.

1st Lt. William J. McManus succeeds 1st Lt. Clyde D. Dean as a member of the USS Los Angeles security detachment.

Chaplain Naughten To El Toro

Chaplain (Cdr.) Gabriel J. Naughten USN, former Senior Catholic Chaplain at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, has taken over his new duties as First Marine Aircraft Wing Chaplain at the Naval Air Station, El Toro, Calif.

the Air Force appeared in last week's edition of THE JOURNAL.

Swift Promotions

The Nurse selectees, who are promoted along with their Line running mates, can anticipate fairly rapid advancement. At the time the Line board reported there was a large number of vacancies. On 21 December, THE JOURNAL reported that the Navy had already ordered 318 officers to report for their qualifying physical examinations. At the same time, it was noted that the Navy expected approximately 160 advancements a month. The Nurse Corps selectees will keep pace with the Line officers.

The initial group of nurses to don the additional half-stripes will have dates of rank retroactive to 1 September. As new vacancies open up, Nurses will be given ranks dating from the first of each month succeeding 1 September, until they attain parity with the Line selectees.

In addition to the 698 named for lieutenant commander, the Navy picked 96 Nurses for two-stripe rank.

Numbers of selections in the other Staff Corps are as follows:

To Lieutenant Commander — Medical Service, 56; Supply, 291; Chaplain, 49; Civil Engineer, 77; Dental, 29; and Medical, 87.

To Lieutenant — Medical Service, 56; Supply, 148; Chaplain, 37; Civil Engineer, 55; Dental, one; and Medical, one.

Captain Gets Flag Billet

Capt. Peter Corradi, CEC, Sixth Naval District Public Works Officer, Charleston, S. C., succeeds RADM. Albert J. Fay, CEC, as Deputy Chief, Bureau of Yards and Docks on 1 February.

Admiral Fay will become District Civil Engineer and District Public Works Officer for the Fifth Naval District, Norfolk, Va.

Navy Describes New Logistics Gear For Mobile Support Handling Missions

The latest equipment for mobile logistic support, including recent innovations in materials handling systems, is described in an 88-page booklet just issued by the Navy's Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

The illustrated brochure, entitled "Equipment for Mobile Logistics Support," presents essential data on various pieces of equipment. Included are factors such as weight, size, application, approximate costs, suppliers and also comments by users of a number of the prototype models.

The equipment included in the booklet is essentially designed to "move cargo from the supply ship to the combatant ships." The machinery to do the job is designed, developed or adapted at the U. S. Naval Supply Research and Development Facility at Bayonne, N. J.

Compilation of Equipment

"Equipment for Mobile Logistics Support" is not a basic research document. What is included is the equipment actually available to the ships in the fleet.

The compilation of information in the booklet reflects an in-gathering of equipment description heretofore widely dispersed. A principal purpose was to provide a ready reference for the various service ships engaged in logistic support as to what equipment is available or is being developed.

Although the number of booklets printed was limited, additional information on any of the items can be obtained by writing to Supply Engineering Research (SS), Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Navy Department, Washington 25, D. C.

Just a few of the items covered in the booklet are vertical tray and pocket conveyors, skate wheel gravity conveyors (with nylon wheels), aluminum telescopic chutes, nylon webbing cargo nets, centerline powered conveyors, specialized metal containers and pallets—all aimed at moving cargo rapidly during replenishment at sea operations.

Battery Powered Vehicles

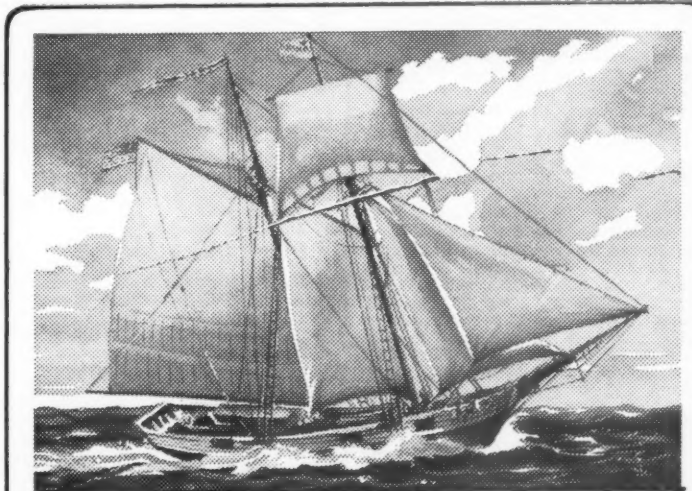

Two battery powered vehicles for shipboard use are presently undergoing evaluation tests. One is a hand pallet truck with controls in the handle. Another prototype model is a compactly designed fork truck with dual drive wheels which can operate in confined spaces. A dual drive provides additional traction to the fork truck, making it useful for moving supplies in refrigerated compartments.

Approximately 40 items are described in this latest engineering report from the U. S. Navy Research and Development activity. The previous publication came out in 1955 and was widely used for reference.

The Naval Supply R&D center at Bayonne is responsible for improving equipment and techniques in cargo and storage handling. In underway replenishment of ships the Navy transfers enormous quantities of provisions, fuel, ammunition and stores of every description. In wartime this transfer must be accomplished in a minimum time, often under difficult conditions.

At the Bayonne center, supply equipment is constantly undergoing study in an effort to ease the materials handling problems of the U. S. Navy.

LOW COST PROTECTION. One of the first in a long line of distinguished U.S. ships, was the MASSACHUSETTS. Built in Newburyport, Mass. in 1791. Weighing 70 tons and costing $1000 dollars she protected America's Coast.

Eighty-eight years later, NAVY MUTUAL AID ASSOCIATION was founded. The purpose was to give low cost protection to members of the Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, and their families. For SEVENTY-NINE YEARS NMA has continued to provide this LOW COST PROTECTION.

Write us today for our free booklet that will explain the full services and benefits of NAVY MUTUAL AID to you.

ELIGIBILITY. All permanent and temporary officers and warrant officers of the Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard, including reserve officers on extended active duty, and not over 62 years of age, are eligible.

Navy Gives Warrants To 30 Petty Officers

The Navy has issued temporary appointments as warrant officer, W-1, to seven 1st class and 44 chief petty officers.

This is the sixth group to be named from the 238-man eligibility list established by the Bureau of Naval Personnel on 5 February and brings the total appointed to 146.

Those named are:

BOATSWAIN—QMC's Bill F. Cowan and Charles L. Quantrell; and BM1 Thomas C. Mason.

SURFACE ORDNANCE TECHNICIAN — GMC John B. Oliver and GM1 Donald M. Waymire.

ELECTRICIAN—ICCA Norman C. Wettestead.

AVIATION ELECTRONIC TECHNICIAN —GFCa Gerald R. Brayton, ATCA Raymond E. Kirby, GF1 John C. Schoppert, AEC Charles W. Valentine, and, ATC Jackson B. Young.

COMMUNICATION TECHNICIAN — CTC's Robert B. Depeyster, Harry J. Depp and Philip C. Mazzara, and, CTCA Allison F. Himmerich.

ELECTRONICS TECHNICIAN — ETC Frederick W. Carnes, ETCA Chester A. Murphy, and, FTC Merle E. Tree.

SHIP'S CLERK—YNC's Charles A. Clemmons, Jr., and Maurice E. Sadler, and, PNC Woodrow P. Cary.

SUPPLY CLERK—SKC's Jean L. Countryman, Arthur E. Overfelt and Paul J. Punzo; AK1 Quinton L. McElyea, and, DK1 Carl R. Moon.

DENTAL SERVICE—DTC Cecil W. Toole.

CIVIL ENGINEER—CDC's Roy E. Fenstermaker and George L. D. Sporhase.

New French Carrier

The first of France's big post-war aircraft carriers is scheduled for sea duty in 1960.

The 27,000 ton carrier Clemenceau, launched at Brest 21 December, will be the largest ship in the French Navy. A sister ship, the Foch, is now under construction.

Air Force Economy Cuts Music Makers

The Air Force will cut the authorized strength in its band program by more than 20 per cent.

The economy-inspired move will see the number of bands drop from 74 to 49. Musician strength will be reduced from the present 2,498 to 1,953.

Displaced bandmen will be retrained for other fields.

Under the new program, one band will serve an area encompassing a number of bases. Thirty-five bands will serve the United States.

Fourteen will be placed overseas. Voluntary drum and bugle corps will be used to supplement the band program and offset the loss of bands in some areas.

"While the new program may not be the ideal one nor all that is desired," said Col. George S. Howard, Chief of Bands, "it is the best that can be provided within present manpower dollar limitations."

Why are Harry's Brands our best sellers? Because . . . they are priced below equally known National Brands. Because . . . they are purchased direct from Nationally known distillers.

Gen. Disosway Moves New USAFE Surgeon

Maj. Gen. Gabriel P. Disosway, former 12th Air Force Commander, has taken over as USAFE Deputy Commander for its Advanced Operations Unit, Ramstein, Germany.

The 12th Air Force was phased out as an operational unit in Europe and transferred, less personnel and equipment, to the Tactical Air Command in the U. S. on 1 January.

In another European change, Brig. Gen. Harold H. Twitchell was assigned as USAFE Surgeon. He will leave his post as Continental Air Command Surgeon and report in Europe 1 February.

Virginia Communities

Honor Heroic AF Lt.

The Virginia Communities of Hampton, Newport News and Warwick are raising funds for plaques to memorialize 2d Lt. Wilbert L. Messmaker, who went down with his plane rather than place the civilian populations in danger.

The lieutenant lost his life by drowning after he rode his crippled plane over open water and ejected. Before he could release himself from his parachute, however, he was dragged under water by heavy winds.

A few minutes after his plane took off, he reported that his fire warning light was on. His squadron commander, Maj. Jerry F. Hogue, flew in tight to assess the situation and ordered the lieutenant to point his plane for the sea and eject.

Lieutenant Messmaker refused to acknowledge the order and controlled the stricken plane from over the populated areas.

The 22-year old officer was a native of South Holland, Ill.

AF, Industry Seek Flameout Solution

Safety and jet engine specialists from more than 70 aircraft industries in the United States and Canada will meet next month with the Air Force to discuss how to eliminate jet engine failures and malfunctions.

These failures, according to Maj. Gen. Joseph D. Caldara, Air Force Director of Flight Safety Research, are the predominant causes of military aircraft accidents.

The meeting, the 32d Air Force-Aircraft Industry Conference, will be held 21-23 January at the El Mirador Hotel, Palm Springs, Calif.

Discussions will include: "Fuel System Contamination and Filtration;" "Flameout—A Jet Aircraft Problem;" "Turbojet Propulsion System Instrumentation;" and "Turbojet Engine Experience."

POSTHUMOUS HONORS

The late Col. Michael N. W. McCoy and two Pinecastle AFB, Fla., officers who died with him in a B-47 mid-air explosion in October have been awarded posthumous decorations by the Air Force.

Colonel McCoy, who at the time of his death was commander of the 321st Bomb Wing at Pinecastle, was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility" from November 1953 to October 1957.

Lt. Col. Charles Joyce and Maj. Vernon D. Stuff, Colonel McCoy's crew members on the ill-fated flight, have been posthumously awarded the Legion of Merit for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service" from August 1955 to October 1957.

Colonel Joyce, at the time of his death, was director of operations for the 321st BW and Major Stuff, chief of the bombing division.

State of the Nation's Defenses. Coming in the wake of two Sputniks and the Gaither Report, the President's State of the Union Message to Congress next Thursday, 9 January, will dwell at length on the state of the nation's defenses.

White House Press Secretary Hagerty says that the President will give "his estimate of the military strength of our country as it is now and what has to be done in the future to continue that strength."

Mr. Hagerty resented press reports which have represented the mysterious Gaither Report as stating that the United States is now in a position of weakness when compared militarily with Russia. By his continual emphasis on the expression that "we are not now in a position of weakness" there seemed to be a strong implication that the Gaither Report forecasts a falling off of our relative strength.

While Mr. Hagerty contended that there is no factual information in the report that has not been made available to the committees of Congress, he declared that there is no intention of making the report public. The President, he said, will give in his message to Congress an estimate of our military strength "based on recommendations and suggestions he has received not only from the Gaither Committee, but from many other committees—the Killian Committee, and many others—as well as his personal information on the subject."

We do not believe this sort of screened data will satisfy Congress or the public. They will want, of course, the views and recommendations of the President but they will also want to see this report about which so much has been written and which appears to carry such portentous implications. Now that it has been stated officially that all of the facts in the report have been made available to Congress there would appear to be no security involved in making the entire document available.

We hope, too, that the President will include in his message an endorsement of a full strength pay revision for the personnel of the Armed Services together with an explanation of what it will mean in long range economy and increased combat efficiency.

Clear the Roads! Red tape and paper work seem to have grown at a much faster rate than the Department of Defense has expanded. Certainly they are to blame for a great deal of the sluggishness plaguing the Department, as reported in the story on the first page of this issue and related articles.

An officer in charge of a highly important project complained bitterly recently that it took many months for a letter to get from his office to another government agency. Upon investigation he found that the Department's normal operating procedures required that his letter pass through 40 other offices before reaching its final destination.

Changes in over-all organization may be found necessary, but it seems to us that one of the first steps to be taken is to clear the lines of communication. Over the years there have been many studies in the earlier War and Navy Departments looking toward the reduction of paper work and the cutting of red tape. Some have produced various degrees of success, but always, as time goes on, there is a tendency to revert to the older and more complicated "channels."

Here is a fertile field for the talents of the Secretary of Defense—put meaning into the word "expedite."

Purchase of Virgin Islands

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

I have a problem. I was in St. Thomas, Virgin Islands in 1917, when the Danish flag was hauled down and the U. S. flag went up, after we had paid the Danes $7,000,000 for the islands.

In THE JOURNAL of 23 November 1957, page 10, you say: "23 November 1867, Dispatches from Washington assert that a contract to purchase the Island of St. Thomas has been signed. The purchase price is $7,000,000."

Did we purchase these expensive baubles twice?

A. M. SCOTT
ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

Editor's Note: The Virgin Islands were purchased by the U. S. on 25 January 1917. The purchase price was $25 million. As early as 1867, however, there was speculation that the United States might buy the Islands from the Danish Government. An American representative went to St. Thomas in 1867 to negotiate with the Danes, but the plan did not reach fruition until 50 years later.

What Does It Take?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

If the Defense Department and Budget Bureau wait long enough, some of the substandard homes (?) in which hundreds of us must live won't be any problem. They will have fallen down.

We figure that when the President asked for something and Congress said O.K., that the rest would be easy.

But, as you have so forcefully reported, such is not the case at all. Last year, the Senate and House said rentals should be reduced, but they couldn't get together on what apparently were minor details.

So, it appeared certain that action in 1957 would be quick. It's been a long wait since the law was passed in August, and we're still waiting. Makes you wonder what it takes to get something done these days?

CAPTAIN, USAF

Armed Forces Academy

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

The 14 December 1957 issue of the ARMY NAVY AIR FORCE JOURNAL carried an editorial on expanding Service Academies. This is a timely topic, and your article should stimulate thought, and help bring about action in implementing this expansion.

As a corollary to your editorial, I would like to offer a suggestion for achieving this purpose without increasing the enrollment at West Point and other service schools, and simultaneously laying, as an added bonus, the basis for greatly increased unification of the services.

I would like to suggest a pre-academy school where appointees to all three services would be enrolled together. We have this concept in our universities with all pre-meds, pre-dents and pre-vets taking the same preliminary education together and then separating to attend their various professional schools. On this basis, I suggest an Armed Forces Academy with a two year curriculum, after which the students would be transferred to their present respective academies for the final two years.

will be of great interest and value to personnel in the Armed Services. Although figures are not available it is safe to say that Service families have adopted a much larger proportion of such children than any other group. This is so because their service at military stations all over the world has brought them into close contact with many thousands of unfortunate waifs and has moved them to do something concrete for them. Adoptions, too, are not limited to childless families, for there are many who have taken such children into homes already blessed with youngsters of their own.

We urge, however, that those considering such adoptions read carefully the suggestions made by the ISS as reported on page 18 of this issue. They will thus be on firmer ground when planning their project.

QUOTES FROM THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago (3 Jan. 1948)—A comparative analysis of industry pay scales with those of the Armed Services has been begun by the recently appointed civilian Advisory Commission on Armed Services Pay.

50 Years Ago (4 Jan. 1908)—Brig. Gen. George F. Elliott commandant of the Marine Corps, on Dec. 28 announced that for the first time in many months the Marine Corps is now up to its full complement of 8,700 enlisted men. General Elliott reports that not only has he secured all the men he wants and withdrawn from the newspapers advertisements calling for recruits, but he is now in a position to pick his men when there is need for further recruitment.

90 Years Ago (4 Jan. 1868)—Whether the vacation in which Congress is indulging will aid some of its members to look more calmly and coolly on the project of reducing the Army, will soon be manifest. There were we know not how many resolutions offered to that end, but all were so general in tenor as to encourage the hope that the practical difficulties in the way will cause the members to be content after all with the present organization.

A Shocker

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Of all the foulups that have come down the pike in recent years, the case of the Navy's action in demanding almost $4,000 from a retired officer it dropped from the rolls (THE JOURNAL 28 December) is a real shocker.

First of all, the decision to eliminate him from the Navy because of his being convicted and sent to prison by a civilian court undoubtedly will open the gates to further attacks on retired rights. It's been my opinion—and that of everyone whom I know in Service—that retired pay is an earned right for past performance, and not something that can be taken away.

Who knows but what, if the Navy precedent is followed, that a military man who might be convicted of manslaughter as a result of an automobile accident could lose his retired pay.

But on top of this, what a Christmas present, as your editorial noted, for a person who has paid his debt to society to be presented with a bill for payments he received because of a Navy mistake.

If Congress doesn't do something to rectify this situation, all of us in the Services will be disappointed.

I think it is particularly important that "forgiveness" legislation be passed because the officer in question, according to your story, rose from enlisted ranks. Someone is sure to say that there may be discrimination involved in this case, and that would be tragic in view of the fact that so many hundreds of enlisted men—I happen to be one of them—have been given every opportunity to get ahead.

Alaskan Command Tells '57 Changes In Service Units, Army Drops Division; Navy Aids DEW Line; AF Consolidates

The following report from Headquarters of the Alaskan Command tells of major activities by Army, Navy and Air Force units during the past year. The Command will mark its 11th anniversary 1 January 1958.

THE Alaskan Command's 11th year was a year of changes and progress. While Lt. Gen. Frank A. Armstrong, Jr., USAF, continued to head the Alaskan Command during 1957, the Army, Navy and Air Force components all received new commanders. They were: Maj. Gen. Gilman C. Mudgett, Commanding General, U. S. Army, Alaska; RAdm. Arnold W. McKechnie, Commander, Alaskan Sea Frontier, and Brig. Gen. Kenneth H. Gibson, Commander, Alaskan Air Command.

Other new commanders in the ground and air arms within the Alaskan Command were: Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Beck, Commanding General, Yukon Command, USARAL; Brig. Gen. Conrad F. Necrason, Commander, 11th Air Division, AAC, and Col. John T. Shields, Commander, 10th Air Division, AAC.

Alaskan Division Dropped

As for progress, USARAL, in the summer of 1957, reshaped its 2nd Infantry Division units into self-contained, mobile battle groups under the Pentomic division plan. The new plan made possible a considerable decrease in manpower needs of the Army in Alaska. The Pentomic division consists of smaller units but is more mobile and capable of delivering at least the firepower of the old type division.

More reorganization followed with the United States Army General Depot becoming the U. S. Army Supply and Maintenance Center with certain increases in its maintenance missions, but with decreases in its manpower.

USARAL received new responsibilities when in July it was charged with all cold weather and mountain training for the entire Army. This mission was given Fort Greely, where the Arctic Indoctrination School was redesignated the U. S. Army Cold Weather and Mountain School. In September the school graduated its first class under the new organization.

Included in USARAL's intensive training for 1957 was the largest maneuver ever held at Fort Richardson—Exercise Hard Times—with more than 5,000 soldiers participating. This was followed by an encampment of over 1,000 Eskimo and Indian National Guardsmen, also at Fort Richardson.

Climaxing the Army's training for 1957 was planning for a large scale winter maneuver, Exercise Cold Bay, to be held on the Fort Greely reservation next February. Plans call for more than 4,000 troops, including a battle group and other elements from the continental United States, to take part in the exercise, which will be the first test of new style infantry units under Arctic conditions since the Army's reorganization under the Pentomic concept.

At the end of 1957 considerable progress had been made in the installation of Nike sites in the Anchorage and Fairbanks areas. Construction on the sites had begun in the spring, and gone on rapidly through the construction season. The sites will become a part of the joint air-ground defenses of the Territory.

Navy Polar Ice Missions

The Navy, too, was active in 1957. They completed a DEWLINE resupply mission involving more than 100 ships and 12,000 men, and brought 242,000 tons of cargo and 3,000,000 barrels of petroleum products to remote Arctic early warning stations. Forty-six of these ships operated in Alaskan waters. Thrusting hundreds of miles through polar ice this fleet of ships was guided by ice reconnaissance information gathered by patrol planes operating from the naval bases at Kodiak and Adak. Scientific observations in support of the International Geophysical year were also conducted during the 1957 resupply.

During 1957, patrol squadrons of the U. S. Pacific Fleet operated in the Alaskan area to train pilots and crewmen in Arctic weather flights and ice reconnaissance. U. S. Pacific Fleet Naval Construction Battalions also trained in Arctic operations in Alaska.

Ships and planes of the Navy operating from Adak performed a continuous rescue service by aiding ships at sea and victims of disasters, as well as providing emergency aid to the people of isolated villages in the Aleutians.

Weather information for use of Naval air, surface and subsurface operations as well as oceanographic information for all the Armed Services was provided by the Fleet Weather Central located at Kodiak. Its area of operation includes all of the polar regions, the Bering Sea, Alaskan land areas and millions of square miles of the Pacific Ocean. It was a busy year for the Alaskan Sea Frontier.

Alaska Air Command Changes

It was a very progressive year for the Alaskan Air Command. The Alaskan, or Western, segment of North America's Distant Early Warning Line, became operational. The Alaskan Air Command has the responsibility for supporting its geographical portion of the DEW line and operating the seaward extension, now under construction along the Aleutian Island Chain.

In another electronics development, "White Alice," the military's vast communications network throughout the Territory, began handling its initial high frequency traffic. Boasting some 30,000 miles of voice and telegraph circuits, White Alice gives Alaskans their first all-weather link with the "outside"—and one another. The system is shared with all governmental agencies in the Territory. It is AAC supported and maintained.

A number of organizational changes highlighted the year in other directions. Operating in a welter of personnel cutbacks and budgetary limitations, the command succeeded in streamlining itself with no impairment to its mission capability.

Numerous consolidations took the sting out of personnel reductions. Now, all air defense activities south of the Alaskan Range are grouped under the 10th Air Division. North of the Range, the 11th Air Division maintains control.

Most spectacular event of the year was the arrival of the F-102 Delta Dagger in Alaska. Simultaneously, the remaining fighter squadron based "North of the Range" received vastly improved models of the Northrop "Scorpion."

F-102 strength is concentrated at Elmendorf AFB. Two fighter Interceptor Squadrons are currently operating the supersonic speedster. With their arrival, the three F-89 equipped squadrons, formerly stationed at Elmendorf were rotated stateside.

Another AAC project that garnered headlines throughout the latter half of 1957 was "Operation Ice Skate," launched in connection with the International Geophysical Year. Scheduled to remain operational another calendar year, Ice Skate features a party of AAC personnel adrift on a huge floe in the vicinity of the North Pole. This remote

Here's The Word On Income Tax Rules For Retired Military Personnel

THE JOURNAL publishes herewith the text of a statement in the official Retired Army Personnel Bulletin. It presents authoritative information regarding taxation of retired pay and is, of course, applicable to all retired military men, whatever their Service. In the weeks ahead, THE JOURNAL will publish other articles concerning income tax on military pay.

RETIRED pay based on length of service or age is subject to Federal taxation. The Army Finance Center computes the amount of income tax to be withheld from your retirement pay for Federal income tax and withholds this amount from the pay you receive.

Every year, by the end of January, the Finance Center will send you a Withholding Tax Statement (Treasury Form W-2) which will indicate the amount of your retired pay which is subject to tax and the amount of money which has been withheld from your retired pay for tax purposes during the preceding year. You should enter these amounts on your income tax return.

If you have made an election under the Uniformed Services Contingency Option Act of 1953, a portion of your retired pay is withheld at the Finance Center each month for payment of the cost of your annuity. This amount is subject to Federal income tax like the rest of your retired pay.

Accordingly, the amount of your Option Act deduction will be shown on your Withholding Tax Statement as income which you received and from which income tax was withheld.

Should you wish to file tax returns on or before 15 January, you may obtain an advance Withholding Tax Statement by writing to the Chief, Retired Pay Division, Finance Center, U. S. Army, Indianapolis 49, Ind. If your retired pay checks are forwarded to a bank, you should inform the Retired Pay Division of any change in your home address in order that your Withholding Tax Statement may be mailed to you properly.

Withholding Exemption Certificate

The amount of tax withheld from your retired pay is determined by the number of exemptions to which you are entitled. If you or your wife reaches the age of 65 during the calendar year or there is an increase in the number of your dependents, you may gain credit for the additional exemptions by completing an Employees Withholding Exemption Certificate (Treasury Form W-4) and mailing it to the Retired Pay Division. You may, however, prefer to claim on your Form W-4 a lesser number of exemptions than you are entitled to so as to cover the tax on sources of income not subject to withholding tax. Forms W-4 may be obtained from any office of the Director of Internal Revenue and most United States Post Offices.

The Internal Revenue Service requires that you file a new withhold-Arctic outpost is supplied entirely by AAC aircraft.

Joint Staff Members

For the Alaskan Command, which plans and coordinates the over-all U. S. military effort in Alaska, General Armstrong's joint staff assisted the CIN-CAL in his responsibilities. Key members of that staff were: Brig. Gen. T. R. Stoughton, USA, Chief of Staff; Brig. Gen. J. R. Copenhaver, USAF, Surgeon; Col. H. D. Smith, Jr., USAF, Asst. CofS, Personnel; Capt. G. F. Rice, USN, Asst. CofS, Intelligence; Col. E. F. Wackwitz, Jr., USAF, Asst. CofS, Operations; Col. W. C. Hall, USA, Asst. CofS, Logistics; Col. D. S. Woods, USAF, Asst. CofS, Communications; Col. M. C. Poch, USAF, Chaplain; Col. R. F. Long, USAF, Weather, and Maj. E. D. Bryson, USA, Adjutant General.

ing exemption certificate with the Finance and Accounting Office from which you receive your retired pay within ten days if the number of your exemptions decreases for any of the following reasons:

Your wife for whom you have been claiming exemption is divorced or legally separated, or claims her own exemption on a separate certificate.

The support of a dependent for whom you claim exemption is taken over by someone else, so that you no longer expect to furnish more than half the support for the year.

You find that a dependent (except a child under the age of 19 or a student) for whom you claimed exemption will receive $600 or more income of his own during the year.

Other decreases in exemption, such as the death of a dependent, do not affect your withholding tax until the next year, but require the filing of a new certificate by the first of the year following the year in which the change occurs.

Disability Retired Pay

If you were retired for disability, part or all of your retired pay will be excluded from Federal income taxation. The manner in which your retired pay is computed determines whether any of your pay is subject to the Federal income tax.

If you are receiving retired pay computed by multiplying your percentage of disability times your basic pay, all your retired pay will be exempt from Federal taxation.

If you were retired for disability and chose to have your pay computed on the basis of length of service, then that amount of your retired pay which is in excess of the amount you would have received if you had elected to have your pay computed on the basis of your percentage of disability will be taxed.

If you were retired for disability and receive 75 per cent of your basic monthly pay because you had service in World War I, only so much of your pay as you would have received if your pay were computed solely on the basis of percentage of disability will be exempt from Federal taxation. The remainder of your pay will be taxed.

If you were placed on the Temporary Disability Retired List, you have elected to have your pay computed on length of service or on percentage of disability. In either case you will receive not less than 50 per cent of your basic monthly pay while you remain on the Temporary Disability Retired List. If you elected to have your pay computed on length of

MORE ARMY CLOSINGS are in the offing. Many of the facilities to be shut down will be much larger and newer than the Schuylkill Arsenal in Philadelphia, which will be closed by 31 March. The Arsenal's 8.6 acres were purchased for $2293.33 on 6 July 1799. In its early days, the Arsenal provided annuities in the form of goods and supplies to Indian tribes which had signed treaties with the Government. The Lewis and Clark expedition was outfitted there in 1803.

NAVY CHAPLAINS are being told that, because of economy programs, "service requirements" rather than "personal preference" will be the determining factor in moving an officer from assignment on the East Coast to a West Coast billet, or vice versa. The advisory adds: "where possible, the personal preference and the service requirements will be tied together."

NEW ATTACKS ON MATS will be made before the House and Senate Appropriations Committees by civilian groups. The object will be to force the Pentagon to curtail further MATS passenger and cargo airlift, with the diversion to commercial planes. MATS leaders are fearful that such action will cripple the M-Day readiness of the global organization.

A NEW ARGUMENT that will be advanced by the civilian carriers is the fact that they soon will have a jet transport capability and MATS won't. MATS people have been insisting—thus far to little avail—that the Defense Department should initiate procurement of large jet transports.

COMPLAINTS WILL BE REGISTERED by Navy men who will resent the action (see page 6) eliminating the combat aircrewman breast insignia. The new metal insignia lacks the stars which showed combat missions.

MANY MORE SAILORS, however, will be pleased with another forthcoming change. The Secretary of the Navy has said it's all right to eliminate the requirement that serial numbers and full names be stencilled on a prominent part of the working uniforms. This practice, enlisted men contended, made them feel like prisoners.

ONE REASON that so many hundreds of military families have adopted children overseas (See Page 18) is the fact that generally speaking it is difficult for persons over 40 years of age to adopt youngsters in the United States. In many foreign countries, this age limit is more liberal.

ANOTHER REASON that Service families find it easier in many instances to adopt children overseas is the fact that military service frequently makes it difficult to comply with residence requirements in the various states.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER'S INTEREST in a better deal for military nurses, which resulted in new legislation, has sharply increased the promotion chances for Army, Navy and Air Force nurses. Last year, the Navy promoted 3 nurses to lieutenant commander. This year's figure is 698.

THE NEW CONGRESS will be asked, and undoubtedly will grant, authority for taking some Navy destroyers out of mothballs and transferring them to West Germany. At present, West Germany's fleet includes only one U. S. destroyer.

A PILOT SURPLUS is causing problems in the Air Force, largely the result of reductions in the force structure. The pilot training pipeline could not be reduced in time to prevent the surplus. One ramification will be a speedup in attrition of older, more experienced pilots into support areas.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLAN to ask Congress for millions of dollars to aid talented high school students in obtaining college training will spur the hopes of Service leaders for stepped-up support of off-duty education programs for military personnel. As a result of the budget cuts ordered by former SecDef Wilson, hundreds of officers and enlisted men saw the Services curtail financial assistance for off-duty college courses. Difficulties have been caused by the fact that the Services lack uniform policies for this program.

IT'S A GOOD BET ALSO that the Services will accelerate programs for sending more youngsters who enlist to college courses. It's believed the retention rate among these men would be substantially higher than is the case with Holloway Plan students in the Navy, who get a subsidized education, then are commissioned with a three-year service obligation.

THOUSANDS OF NOMINATIONS for military appointments and promotions will be sent to the Senate early in the new Congressional session. The Air Force, for example, will submit the names of almost 18,000 Reserve officers given recess appointments as Regulars (new list, Page 1). The Army also has hundreds of such appointments.

THE CLOSED DOOR HEARINGS to be conducted by the House Armed Services Committee into the Nation's defense posture will be culminated by specific recommendations for changes in the Defense Department structure. The House group has experience with such an inquiry; its "Unification and Strategy" report at the end of the 1948-49 controversy between the Air Force and Navy over the B-36 and the supercarrier has been a source document for all groups considering the Pentagon organization.

THE NATIONAL PRESS CLUB in Washington, D. C., has provided an influential forum for Service Chiefs to air their views on unification problems. The end of November saw an address by General White of the Air Force, followed by a mid-December report from General Taylor of the Army. Admiral Burke of the Navy gets his chance on 6 January. Equally as important as the prepared addresses, which are subject to tight control on "policy" as well as "security," are the question-answer periods which follow the talks. The Journal has given extensive coverage to the presentations made by the Army and Air Force Chiefs, will do the same in next week's issue with Admiral Burke's address.

SKIP AND GLIDE reentry to the atmosphere by missiles and manned hypersonic aircraft is commanding increased attention. This technique is seen as a way of solving difficult reentry heat problems. Airmen are forecasting that someday in the future a control tower may advise a pilot to "get in the landing pattern and go once around the world."

Military Institute Elects Board of Trustees

Harvard, Yale and Georgetown Universities are each represented on the newly-elected board of trustees of the American Military Institute, a nationwide organization devoted to the study of military history.

Dr. Edward Katzenbach, Director of Defense Studies at Harvard; Professor William B. Emerson, head of Yale's History Department and Dr. James D. Atkinson, Assistant Professor of Government at Georgetown, are three of the six members of the board.

Others elected were Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong, USA-Ret.; Capt. Samuel
G. Kelly, USN-Ret.; and George Bell
Dyer of New Hope, Pa., a specialist in strategic intelligence.

Col. William C. Foote is secretary of the Institute.

Col. Edmonde Kelly Is Meade Engineer, Col. W. H. Edwards Leaves NATO Naples Post

COL. EDMONDE B. KELLY is the new Post Engineer at Ft. Meade, Md.
Colonel Kelly and his wife, Genevieve, will make their home at Ft. Meade.

COL. WILLIAM H. EDWARDS has departed assignment with Hq. Allied Forces Southern Europe at Naples, Italy, for retirement after 33 years' service.

Colonel Edwards, who enlisted in the Army Engineers in 1924 when General of the Armies John J. Pershing was Chief of Staff, was cited for his outstanding performance as Chief of the Administrative Division by Admiral Robert P. Briscoe, USN, Commander-in-Chief of the six-nation NATO headquarters. The military tradition will be carried on by the colonel's son, Lt. William H. Edwards, jr., an Army aviator who was graduated from West Point in 1955, and is now attending the Engineer School at Ft. Belvoir, Va.

The colonel and his wife, the former Dorothy Chunder of Chula Vista, Calif., have no definite plans beyond visiting their son. However, their anticipated
Florida vacation includes golf and fishing.

ARADCOM Gets Better Communications System

More effective Nike missile defenses are expected to result from the recent expansion of the Army Air Defense Command Communication Center at Ent AFB, Colo.

The Center will operate faster than previous ARADCOM facilities and will automatically code and decode messages.
The coding and decoding operations were formerly done manually.

Once housed with the Air Force's communications facilities at Ent AFB, the Army facility is now in separate quarters which provide necessary space for additional equipment and personnel.

At dedication ceremonies 13 December, Lt. Gen. Charles E. Hart, ARADCOM Commander, noted that these "additional facilities measurably increase the efficiency and effectiveness of our communications. The Army Nike missile defenses throughout the nation may now be reached by this headquarters with more rapid and reliable means."

Lt. Col. Samuel T. Jacks is ARADCOM communications officer.

Crash Group Cites

Army; Moves Near AF

The Army Surgeon General's office has been cited by the Cornell University Crash Injury Research Program for its efforts to improve aviation safety.

The citation was contained in a certificate noting the "valuable contribution" made by Army support. The program has received active support from the Army since 1 January 1957.

The program recently moved to Phoenix, Ariz., in order to be near the west coast aircraft companies and the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph AFB, Tex.

VAP-62 Gets Photo

Model Of Skywarrior

Heavy Photographic Squadron 62, based at NAS Jacksonville, Fla., has re-
reconnaissance version of the "Skywarrior."

Designated A3D-1P, the new plane supplements VAP-62's AJ-2P "Savages" and eventually the squadron will operate entirely with A3D-2P's, now in production.

The new photo-recon plane is similar in appearance to other "Skywarriors" in the series except that the forward section of the bomb-bay is modified to accommodate various aerial cameras and a

The plane was modified as a vehicle for studying the problems of long range, high altitude and high speed aerial photography.

VAP-62 is led by Cdr. H. W. Drum. Executive Officer is Cdr. C. W. Hollinshead.

Sailor Braves 60' Waves To Rescue Man Overboard

The Navy and Marine Corps Medal was presented to Lawrence W. Beckhaus 22
December on board the USS Salamonde at Newport, R. I. by Radm. John C.
Daniel, Commander of the Atlantic Fleet
Destroyer Force.

The Second Class Gunners Mate was cited for heroic action in rescuing a sailor who had been swept overboard from the Destroyer USS Gearing just off the coast of Spain. Beckhaus volunteered to jump overboard to the rescue despite mountainous 60 foot waves and a 60 knot wind.

The rescued seaman was George D.
Schack, who was jettisoning loose gear to lighten the destroyer when a large wave broke over the Gearing and swept him overboard.

U. S. COAST GUARD

Secretary of the Treasury—Robert B. Anderson
Commandant—Vice Adm. Alfred C. Richmond

HEADQUARTERS cautions that afloat Coast Guard units to be aware of the errors which will result when bearings are taken on commercial radio broadcasting stations for purposes of navigation.
Such bearings, Headquarters warns, may be very inaccurate due to error coastal refraction and the fact that the direction finder usually has not been calibrated in the standard broadcast band which covers 1000 kc/s.

Whenever, commercial stations are used to fix position, the Coast Guard said, the lines of bearing should be plotted from the position of the broadcast transmitter, not the studio. Before a fix is taken, the precise location of the antenna should be known and plotted to avoid the possibility of large unknown errors.

In addition, Headquarters orders all afloat units to take bearings on all radio beacons within their operational range and report the findings to their District Commanders, regarding interference, readability, signal strength and usability.
This information will be passed on to other Coast Guard units and to the boating public.

Win Warrants

Coast Guard Headquarters has appointed SCLK's Robert B. Paris and Lester M. H. Roehr to the temporary rank of warrant officer, W-1.

At the same time, new assignments were ordered conditional upon the acceptance of the warrants. WO Paris reports to the Officer-in-Charge of the Reserve Office, Kansas City, from the Enlisted Group at Elizabeth City, N. J.
WO Roehr shifts to Coast Guard District

Mr. Quick Movie Chief

Mr. Robert E. Quick has been named to head the Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service succeeding Mr. Fred
Bund, Jr., who retired 3 January.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Bund was presented the Exceptional Civilian Service Medal for his distinguished service during more than 36 years with the Motion Picture Service.

Presentation was made in a Pentagon ceremony 18 December by the Honorable Hugh M. Milton II, Assistant Secretary of the Army for Manpower, Personnel and Reserve Forces.

Mr. Bund began his career in 1921 as manager of the Boston Branch of the Army Motion Picture Service. He was appointed Chief of the Service in 1945 and continued in that capacity upon establishment of the joint Army and Air Force Motion Picture Service in 1948.

Mr. Quick is a career official with the Motion Picture Service.

SERVICE FAMILY NOTES

Footo Family Gathers—

RAdm and Mrs. Percy W. Footo, USN-Ret, were the guests of Col. and Mrs. Thomas C. Footo at Ft. McPherson, Ga. over the holidays.

Admiral Footo retired from the Navy in 1946 after 45 years service. His son is the Third Army Deputy Chief of Staff.

During the latter part of WW I, Admiral Footo commanded the USS President Lincoln, a troop ship which was sunk by a German submarine while returning from France in May 1918.

Because of the outstanding discipline and performance of the crew during the attack, only a small loss of life was recorded and the entire ship's company was cited and Admiral Footo was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

In later years Admiral Footo served as Aide to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and commanded the USS Arkansas.

Army SGO Women's Club—

The January luncheon of the Women's Club of the Army Surgeon General's Office will be held on Thursday, 9 January, at 12 noon, at the Walter Reed Officers' Club.

Mrs. Ralph O. Anderson will be chairman of the luncheon with the members of the Bethesda, Chevy Chase, Washington and Walter Reed groups assisting her in arrangements.

Mrs. Camilla Moody Payne, Official Decorator for the President's Guest House, will speak on "Good Taste in Decorating."

Miss Dawson Honored—

Miss Sarah Jessup Dawson, senior at Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs, N. C., has been voted the Maid of Honor for the annual May Court by the student body of Flora Macdonald College.

She has in previous years been voted as a representative to the May Court and "Miss Personality" of Flora Macdonald College.

Miss Dawson is the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. W. H. Dawson, Jr., USA-Ret., 102 Myrtle Street, Fayetteville, N. C.

TC OWC to Honor Other Service Wives—

The Transportation Corps Women's Club will have as guests the wives of the chiefs of the technical services and administrative services and the presidents of their officers' wives clubs when they entertain at "brunch" on 7 January at Patton Hall, Ft. Myer, Va.

Dr. Myrtle Cheney Murdock, lecturer, writer and official Capitol guide, will be the guest speaker. Chairman for the event is Mrs. A. H. Crawford, who will be assisted by Mrs. W. V. N. Grace, hospitality, and Mrs. A. J. Griggs, decorations.

Reservations, which close 3 January, may be made with Mrs. Herbert P. Brann, 709-16th St., Alexandria, Va.

Chaplains' Wives Club—

Members of the Chaplains' Wives Club of the Washington area will meet for

Pentagon Considers New Pamphlet On O'sea Child Adoption; Here Are The Do's And Don'ts Of The Authoritative Report

SERVICE families who wish to adopt foreign-born orphans now can benefit by professional advice made available to THE JOURNAL by the International Social Service.

Contained in a draft pamphlet, now being considered for global distribution by the Department of Defense, the ISS advisory details both where foreign orphans may be available for adoption by Service personnel, and the procedures to be followed for successful adoption.

The pamphlet states that there are a considerable number of children available for adoption in Italy, Greece and the Far East.

There are large numbers of so-called "Eurasian children" in Japan and Korea. Germany has a lesser number of available children, including some who are half-negro.

There are no available children in England or Scotland, where law restricts the adoption of children by aliens. Few are to be found in Belgium, France and the Netherlands, where there is an abundance of potential adopters.

The ISS says there are apparently very few Jewish children. These are usually taken immediately by relatives if deprived of parental care.

Most of the children who are available for adoption are illegitimate, says the ISS. Many of them have been fathered by Americans. Some are foundlings about whom little or nothing can be known.

Here's the International Social Service advice to all potential adopters in the military services:

DON'TS

- Don't contact the child's mother or other relatives. This is all too apt to lead to trouble for the adopters later on, since there is no possibility for confidentiality as to their identity. Some hopeful adopters, trying to use direct contact with the mother as a short-cut to an adoption, bitterly regret this later when the mother for various reasons tries to keep in touch with them or to have the child returned.

- Don't get in direct contact with the children's home or institution. A well-meaning matron often all too quickly offers a particular child, while completely to whether the child is legally free for adoption. Many hopeful adopters have become quickly interested in and even luncheon at the cafeteria of the National Gallery of Art, Constitution Ave. and 6th Street, N. W., at 12 noon, on Tuesday, 7 January. After the luncheon, starting at 1:30 p.m. the group will attend a lecture and a selective tour will be made through the Gallery.

VA SEEKS DATA

More than one million veterans, widows and children receiving Veterans Administration nonservice-connected disability or death pension have been mailed annual income questionnaires.

VA urged those receiving the questionnaire to fill in all queries and return the completed paper without delay.

Otherwise, the agency said, regulations require that VA stop pension payments in any case where the questionnaire is not returned within 30 days.

VA explained the questionnaire requests data on 1957 income and anticipated income for 1958 under the law which stipulates that any person whose annual income exceeds $1,400 without dependents or $2,700 with dependents shall not be entitled to pension.

The questionnaires will not be mailed to veterans or their widows or children who are receiving compensation for service-connected disability or death because income limitations do not apply to these persons.

WAIF STARS

International Social Service has eye appeal.

WAIF, its fund-raising organization to support international adoption activities, is headed by Jane Russell. WAIF's New York Chapter is directed by Joan Crawford.

Scores of stage and screen stars regularly lend their support to the program.

attached to a child thus proposed, only to be deeply disappointed when this plan cannot be realized, not to mention the real harm this kind of disappointment can mean to an already deprived child.

- Don't try to arrange, through whatever means, to adopt a child not yet born. Any mother has the right to consider carefully, after the child's birth, whether she wants to release her child for adoption.

- Don't think of adoption as a kind of medicine for a shaky marriage, or as a help for a child already in the family who is presenting behavior problems; adoptions must be considered as primarily in the interest of the child to be adopted.

- Don't consider the establishment of a legal tie between the adopters and the adopted, that is an adoption "by proxy" or other hasty method, until there has been the possibility of meeting and undergoing a period of living together, and testing out mutual adaptation.

- Don't go into a country, locate a child, take the child away with you in the matter of a few weeks. This is, even if legally possible, not fair to the child, to the adopters, or to those responsible for the child.

- Don't offer or agree to "shop around" for a child for your relatives or friends, and don't ask anyone to do this for you. The "matching" of parents and child in personality, temperament and intelligence is important for their future family life. Professional people who are experienced in child placement are best equipped to take this responsibility.

DO'S

- Be prepared to have a "home study" made before a recognized children's service agrees to place a child with you. This is an important step for the protection of the child, for those responsible for him, and for the potential adopters themselves. Whereas you may feel certain that you would be good adoptive parents for some child, whom you may or may not have already found, experience has repeatedly shown that couples cannot bear entirely alone the full responsibility of choosing themselves as adopters.

- Be prepared for this home study to include not only a careful consideration with you of your present situation and surroundings, if you are already abroad, but some evaluation of your home community in the U. S. where you will be later taking the child to live.

- Try to bear in mind that if a child is entrusted to you for adoption, the child will then not only be yours, but will be a part of your entire family. If you have other children, or there are other close relatives, they must also be taken into consideration. Sometimes a couple may have the capacity to accept a child, but another member of the family may not be able to do so, which can result in an unhappy adoption, in spite of the couple's best intentions.

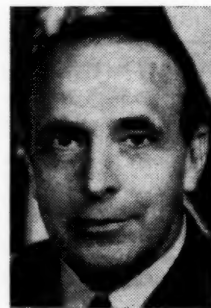

- Try to bear in mind that an adoptive relationship is a permanent one, so that

Gen. Lemnitzer Cites Human Role Of Army, ISS

General Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Army Vice Chief of Staff, has stressed that "military commanders on all levels spend a great deal of their time on personal and social problems involving men of their commands."

Speaking before the recent International Social Service meeting in New York City, General Lemnitzer noted that he himself, as Commander-in-Chief of the Far East and United Nations Commands found himself "spending a large part of my time on problems of political, economic, and human relations significance."

He emphasized that "presently, as a result of the combined efforts of the military, the International Social Service and other similar type organizations, we have made considerable progress in solving personal and social problems which confront us overseas."

you must be prepared to assume responsibility for that child on a permanent basis, with the capacity to face problems which may develop and difficulties which must be worked out.

- Be certain that the child proposed to you, after you have been approved as adopters, is not only legally free for adoption, but that his mother or responsible relative is psychologically ready to release him and understands fully the meaning of adoption as it is accepted in the U. S. Such assurance can generally be given only when adoption arrangements are being handled in cooperation with a competent service in touch with the child, with those responsible for him, and with the adopters.

- Try to understand the importance of the "matching" process, by which persons experienced in adoption try insofar as possible to bring together the "right family" for that particular child, and the "right child" for that particular family, based on the home study of the adoptive family, and on a study of the child and whatever information is available about him. Any information concerning the child which will be of help to the adoptive parents in caring for him will be made available to them.

- Be prepared for a period of mutual adjustment between child and parents, during which an experienced adoption worker will, when possible, give any necessary help before legal adoption takes place.

- Be certain at as early a stage as is practicable that your child will be able to immigrate to the United States "when you return home." A foreign child must be eligible for admission to the United States according to our immigration laws and the requirements of the U. S. Public Health Service. If the child already has a visa for the U. S., be sure that it will still be valid at the time you expect to go home. These questions can be checked with any U. S. Consul.

- Remember that adoption does not confer U. S. citizenship, although it does reduce the waiting period usually required. A child adopted by an "American citizen and spouse" becomes eligible for citizenship when resident in the U. S. after having lived with the adoptive parents for at least two years following an adoption accepted as legal by the U. S. Government.

- Check with the social service helping you in your adoption plan as to whether and at what stage special legal advice is needed. Uncoordinated social and legal planning can result in unnecessary confusion and expense. Legal service may be necessary in relation to: the legality of the consent to the child's adoption, as given by the mother or legal guardian; the legal steps in relation to a foreign adoption; verifying its validity in the parents' state of residence in the U. S., and readoption in that state if necessary.

- Know that even if you are remaining in the U. S., that is, not having an overseas assignment, or if you must return to the U. S. before completing adoption arrangements abroad, or even before locating a child to adopt, this does not mean that adoption of a foreign child is out of the question. Some of the most satisfactory inter-country adoptions, aided by International Social Service, were those where the couple have remained in their own home community and where all the safeguards here mentioned have been carefully observed.

- Be certain that you obtain a new or revised birth certificate giving the new name for your child after adoption has been completed. These can be secured in some foreign countries, e.g. Germany, without making the name and address of adoptive parents a matter of public record. Many States in the United States can issue a revised birth certificate for a child adopted by residents of the State in accordance with State laws.

- Be prepared to let your child know in a simple, natural way that he is adopted.

U. S. AND OVERSEAS

While still in the United States, Service families may start the adoption process by getting in touch with a competent adoption or child placement service in their locality to request that a "home study" be started. If they don't know whom to approach they can ask the State Welfare Department.

The local children's service can later communicate through the International Social Service with the competent organization in the country where the couple will be stationed.

If stationed in Europe, military families should communicate directly with the child welfare or social service authorities where they are stationed. Any information the local organizations desire about the home community in the United States can be obtained through the International Social Service.

If not in touch with a competent social service agency in their locality, the Service couple may write to the American Branch, International Social Service, 345 East 46th Street, New York 17, N. Y. Their letter should include full facts about themselves and their adoption plans, and mention any contacts with stateside adoption agencies.

In the Far East, couples in Japan should write to International Social Service, 13 Shiba Sakae Cho, Tokyo (Masonic Building), or International Social Service, APO 500, San Francisco, Calif. In Korea they should write to International Social Service, #3 K-a Choong Mu Ko, Choong Ku, Seoul, or International Social Service, APO 301, San Francisco, Calif.

Service Families Get Large Part Of ISS Aid

Service-connected problems account for more than 40 per cent of the annual work load of International Social Service in the United States.

The number of service cases handled by ISS during 1957 is expected to approach, if not exceed, the 5,000 mark. The total number of families aided by the American Branch of ISS during the year is expected to fall between 10,000 and 12,000 families.

The broad purpose of ISS is to aid families and individuals with problems that transcend national boundaries.

To this end, the organization provides advice and counseling, serves as a clearing house of social agencies in 65 foreign countries and the United States, eases the legal red tape involved in immigration, adoption and international social work problems.

More than 1,500 social agencies in over

1,000 U. S. communities cooperate with the work of ISS.

For many years, a large part of ISS work has been to aid foreign spouses of American military personnel who have been stranded abroad after their soldier-husband has returned to the U. S. and been separated from the service.

In many cases they have conquered matrimonial problems for couples separated through transfer or separation from the Service.

With the increasing desire on the part of American service families to adopt foreign orphans, ISS work in this field is on the upswing.

Present head of the International Social Service as well as its American Branch is Mr. William Kirk, whose Army career included military government work in Europe. During that tour of duty he worked with Army activities for displaced persons.

GABLE-WARREN — Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Warren of Rockville, Md., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Roberta, to Lt.(jg). Carl F. Gable, jr., USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gable of Boston, Mass.

Miss Warren is a student at Trinity College. Her fiancé, a graduate of Brown University, is currently assigned to the Office of Naval Intelligence at the Pentagon.

A late June wedding is planned.

GLANTZBERG-BRAMLITT — In a candlelight double ring ceremony in historic old Falls Church, at Falls Church, Va.,

28 December, Miss Marianna Handy Bramlitt became the bride of Mr. Frederic Ernst Glantzberg, jr., with the Reverend Louis M. Bradford officiating. The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Henry Bramlitt of 5904 Wooten Dr., Falls Church, and parents of the bridegroom are Maj. General and Mrs. Glantzberg of Washington, D. C.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose her sister, Miss Nancy Bramlitt, as her maid of honor and Misses Frances Welch, her cousin, Carol Weekes, Betsy Campbell and Sarah Adams as her bridesmaids. Best man for Mr. Glantzberg was Mr. Harold Sharon, and ushering were Messrs. Hughes Glantzberg, brother of the bridegroom, Thomas Diamond and Nathan Bliss.

Mrs. Glantzberg is an alumna of St. Mary's Junior College at Raleigh, N. C., and Agnes Scott College. Her husband, who is a graduate of the Hill School and the Georgia Institute of Technology, where he was a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, is presently associated with the Carbide and Carbon Chemical Co., of Port Lavaca, Tex. He and his bride will make their home at Victoria, Tex., following a southern honeymoon.

All Services May Enter AF Talent Contest

Air Force Headquarters has set its plans for this year's AF Talent Contest.

Detailed in AFR 34-5, plans for the competition suggest that contests on all levels be conducted in the form of a variety show.

Service-wide finals will be conducted during the week of Armed Forces Day observance.

All Air Force enlisted personnel as well as personnel of other branches who are assigned to Air Force installations and not able to take part in contests sponsored by their own branch, are eligible to enter.

AF MAIL BOXES

Air Force commanders can now purchase standard Post Office letter boxes for use in installation mail rooms.

The use of such boxes in unit and consolidated mail rooms, officer and noncommissioned officer clubs, says AFR 182-17, "has proved an excellent means of achieving greater efficiency and economy in base postal operations."

Standard boxes may be procured either locally or through the Post Office Department. The regulation contains procurement procedures and box specifications.

SERVICE OBITUARIES

Adm. Perceval S. Rossiter, USN-Ret.

Funeral services were held at Santa Barbara, Calif., 23 December for Adm. Perceval S. Rossiter, USN-Ret., who died at his home at Santa Barbara on 20 December. Burial was at the Santa Barbara Cemetery.

Following his retirement from active duty in 1938, Admiral Rossiter served as Chief of Staff at Gallinger Hospital, Washington, D. C., until 1949. In 1950, he and his family moved to Santa Barbara, where he became Executive Director of the Blood Bank. Admiral Rossiter's wife, Mrs. Isabel P. Rossiter, died on 19 November 1954.

He is survived by his daughter, Miss Ernestine S. Rossiter of 1519 San Leandro Lane, Santa Barbara.

1st Lt. William Pace Purdue, USA

Funeral and burial services were held at West Point, N. Y., 23 December for 1st Lt. William Pace Purdue, USA, who died at the age of 25 at Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., 17 December.

Son of Mrs. Branner P. Purdue of 11 Cantrell Dr., Columbus, Ga., and of the late Brig. General Purdue, (USMA '25), Lieutenant Purdue was born in the Territory of Hawaii. He was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1954, where he was a member of the track and football teams. Since his graduation, he had served at Ft. Benning, Ga., and Ft. Campbell, Ky. Of a long line of Service connections, Lieutenant Purdue was the grandson of the late Col. W. G. Sills, (USMA '95), and the nephew of the late 1st Lt. W. G. Sills, (USMA '33).

In addition to his mother, he is survived by one sister, Mrs. William E. Klein, wife of Lieutenant Klein, (USMA '54), now stationed at Camp Drew, Japan; one niece, Katharine Sills Klein; his grandmother, Mrs. Ida Pace Purdue of Little Rock, Ark.; one aunt, Mrs. Joseph Polaretki of Columbus; and his uncle, Mr. Howell Purdue of Washington, D. C.

Capt. John Marie Creighton, USN-Ret.

Funeral services were held recently for Capt. John Marie Creighton, USN-Ret., who died after a short illness, at Carmel, Calif., at the age of 66.

A native of Kansas, Captain Creighton served as Fleet Intelligence Officer on Fleet Admiral Chester Nimitz's staff during WWII. A veteran of 36 years service, after his retirement from active duty, Captain Creighton lived near Washington, D. C., for five years, before moving to California.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Creighton; four brothers; and two sisters.

Crash of Navy Radar Plane—

In an area of more than 3500 square miles of the Pacific Ocean a fruitless search was conducted last week by ships and aircraft, following the crash of a huge Navy radar plane on 23 December in rough seas. Four crewmen of the Superconstellation were rescued earlier and two bodies, those of Controlman 3/C Charles D. Price and Technician 3/C James C. Rush, were recovered. Those rescued were Avn. Technician 3/C Franklin A. Henry, 22; Cdr. Guy Howard, 41, the plane's Executive Officer; Lt(jg) John Thomas Kline, 25; and Lt(jg) Richard L. Rentschler, 22.

Seventeen crew members are missing.

Army-AF Cooperation Reflected In Letters

Close 18th Air Force support for U. S. Army operations over a three-year period is the major subject of letter of appreciation from Maj. Gen. R. F. Sink, USA, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps at Ft. Bragg, N. C., to Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, USAF, 18th Air Force commander.

The letter, which went through official military channels, was warmly endorsed by Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, commander of the Third United States Army, General W. G. Wyman, commander of the Army's Continental Army Command, and General O. P. Weyland, commander of the Air Force's Tactical Air Command.

The letter was written to mark the close of a unique partnership between the 18th Air Force, as TAC's global combat airlift force, and the 18th Airborne Corps, which directs all Army paratroop activities. The airlift planes of the 18th Air Force, including C-124's, C-130's, C-119's and C-123's, averaged more than a quarter million paratroopers annually dropped at Fort Bragg, Fort Campbell, and overseas locations. The 18th Air Force shared with the 18th Airborne Corps almost every major military maneuver or exercise, including simulated combat missions all over the United States, Alaska, Greenland, Labrador, Panama, Puerto Rico and even Japan.

The airlift mission of the 18th Air Force has been turned over to the 9th Air Force, and the Waco headquarters now commands all TAC supersonic fighter and fighter bomber bases west of the Mississippi River.

"It is with sincere regret that we in the 18th Airborne Corps learned of your move to Waco," wrote General Sink, "and of the transfer of control over troop carrier units to the 9th Air Force. During the past thirty-three months, a most cordial and cooperative relationship has existed between our commands. Concepts of dispersed marshalling areas, airfields and drop zones have been studied. The thought stimulus provided by members of our staffs in their respective approaches to these common problems have laid the groundwork for workable and sensible solutions. Your personal understanding and awareness of the importance of these problem areas, together with your wide experience in airborne techniques, provided guidance and unlimited support toward their solution."

Commenting on General Sink's letter, General Weyland wrote:

"The correspondence further reflects the admirable manner in which you dispatched your duties as Commander, 18th Air Force, while that Air Force had the overall troop carrier responsibility within

Lawson Army Air Field Installs GCA System

Lawson Army Air Field, Fort Benning, Ga. has installed a Ground Control Approach system. The unit designated and built by Gilfillan Brothers, Inc., of Calif., is called a Quadradar.

The set gives the operator four systems in one, surveillance, final approach, height finding and surface control.

The set is also designed to track and control aircraft flying up to 120,000 feet, enabling the pilot to climb straight up without fear of colliding with other aircraft.

With this system, Sgt. William E. Ford, GCA controller, can locate a distant aircraft and direct it to a final approach five miles out from the end of the runway.

Then switching to final approach he can guide the aircraft down a centerline and glide path to a point 50 feet above the end of the runway.

Gen. Smith Gets Cluster

Maj. Gen. Sory Smith, Fourth Air Force Commander, Hamilton AFB, Calif., was awarded an Oak Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit 27 December following the Continental Air Commanders Conference at Mitchel AFB, N. Y.

Among high ranking officers attending the presentation were: Lt. Gen. William E. Hall, CONAC Commander; Maj. Gen. Robert E. L. Eaton, Tenth Air Force Commander, Selfridge AFB, Mich.; Maj. Gen. John W. Persons, Fourteenth Air Force Commander, Robins AFB, Ga.; and Maj. Gen. John H. Ives, First Air Force Commander, Mitchel AFB.

Single Oil Agency Fuel For Dispute

The next session of Congress will probe dissatisfaction that has developed at the Pentagon over billion dollar per year petroleum purchases.

At the base of the difficulty is former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson's action in establishing a Single Manager system for POL procurement.

Secretary Wilson, in what obviously was a compromise decision, gave the Navy responsibility for all petroleum procurement in the Armed Forces.

This decision was made notwithstanding the fact that the Air Force uses more POL than the Navy.

What has aggravated the Air Force's dissatisfaction with the setup is that Mr. Wilson shifted the Military Petroleum Supply Agency, which had been a joint organization under the Defense Department with the chiefs rotating among the Services to the Navy.

In the Navy, the Agency, which spent $1,256,288,126 during fiscal year '57, has been placed under the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

It is interesting that the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, eliminating fuel purchases, spends less than the Armed Services Petroleum Purchasing Agency, its subordinate unit.

The head of the Petroleum Agency is RADM. O. P. Lattu, USN, who is 51, with rank as a rear admiral from 1 July 1955.

The head of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, to whom Admiral Lattu is responsible, is RADM. Ralph J. Arnold, 55, who has held flag rank since 1 July 1949.

It is the contention of Air Force officials, as well as others in the Services, that the Navy's decision to place the Petroleum Agency under the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts has affected adversely the Agency's ability to handle complex global problems for all the Services.

Congress undoubtedly will want to know (1) why the Navy was chosen over the Air Force as the Executive Agent; and (2) why the Agency has been given a relatively low echelon status under the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts.

Col. Jacoby, District Engineer

Col. Arthur M. Jacoby will become District Engineer at Little Rock, Ark., effective about 1 March, 1958.

He will succeed Col. Staunton L. Brown, who is being assigned to duty in Korea.

Colonel Jacoby, 42, has been Assistant Division Engineer, South Atlantic Division, Atlanta, Ga., since August, 1956.

Drone Surveillance Aids Combat CO's

Combat commanders soon will be aided by a new photo-reconnaissance system capable of accurate low-level photography at night.

The system is a rugged, lightweight camera installed in a pilotless drone plane. Illumination is provided by an automatic flare ejector designed by the Armament Division of Universal Match Corp., St. Louis, Mo.

The camera was designed by the Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp., Syosset, N. Y., in conjunction with the Signal Corps.

Engineers at the Signal Engineering Laboratories, Ft. Monmouth, N. J., feel that the drone will be extremely difficult to intercept or shoot down since it flies in darkness at comparatively low altitudes.

Builders of Defense

NORTH AMERICAN AVIATION'S Columbus, Ohio, Division is completing negotiations with the Navy on a $37.5 million contract for the T2J jet trainer. The trainer can be either carrier or land-based.

AEROPHYSICS DEVELOPMENT CORP., Santa Barbara, Calif., has appointed Helmut Kuerschner as Chief of the Computer Operations Projects Office in its Air Force Missiles Department. Mr. Kuerschner was a supervisory Aeronautical Research Engineer at the Army's Redstone, Ala., Arsenal for two years and later worked in a similar position at the Air Force Missile Development Center, Holloman AFB, N. Mex.

FAIRCHILD CAMERA AND INSTRUMENT CORP., Syosset, N. Y., is producing a new photographic reconnaissance system designed specifically for the supersonic Convair RB-58 Hustler. Included in the system is a closed circuit television to provide the photo-navigator with an unobstructed view of the forward terrain.

BRUSH BERYLLIUM CO., Cleveland, Ohio, has developed manufacturing techniques for the production of sheet Beryllium suitable for weapons system application. The process was developed to meet the need for a light-weight material that will retain its strength at temperatures up to 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

DUMONT LABORATORIES, INC., has appointed Murray C. Walker, Jr., as New England Regional Manager of its Military Operations Department. He is a member of the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Association and the Air Force Association.

FEDERAL TELECOMMUNICATION LABORATORIES, Nutley, N. J., has appointed Michael F. Burke as a Contract Administrator. Mr. Burke had been associated with the Office of the General Counsel, Department of the Navy, and the Department of Justice.

COOK ELECTRIC CO. has announced that Dr. Harvard L. Hull, Vice-President of Litton Industries, Inc., has resigned to become President of the Nucleodyne Corp., a wholly owned Cook subsidiary.

ACF INDUSTRIES, INC., has elected Don G. Mitchell as a member of the company's Board of Directors. A frequent advisor to Government bodies, Mr. Mitchell has been active in the Marshall Plan, The National Distribution Council, the Advisory Council to the Senate Committee on Trade Policies, and was a member of the Hoover Commission task force appointed to study the Civil Service program.

USS Skate Ready Seven Months Early

Cdr. James F. Calvert assumed command of the Nation's first production-model atomic submarine, USS Skate, at her 23 December commissioning ceremony at the Groton, Conn., yard of General Dynamics Corporation's Electric Boat Division.

The Skate, approximately 25 per cent smaller than her predecessors, USS Nautilus and USS Sea Wolf, was delivered to RADM. Milton E. Miles, Commandant, Third Naval District, by Mr. Carleton Shugg, a General Dynamics Senior Vice-President.

The new A-sub was completed seven months ahead of schedule. She is 267-feet long, displaces 2,190 tons, and carries 85 officers and men.

LCol. Sauter Heads Textile Branch

Lt. Col. Louis F. Sauter, Jr., USA, has been assigned as Chief of the Textile Branch, Purchasing Division, Military Clothing and Textile Supply Agency, Philadelphia, Pa., Quartermaster Depot.

Since September 1955 he was assigned to the Depot Purchasing Division and in 1956 attended the Procurement Management Course at Ft. Lee, Va.

Colonel Sauter lives with his wife and three children at 63 Seckelpear Road, Levittown, Pa.

THE NAVY CERTIFICATE OF MERIT, for "significant achievement" in connection with the design and construction of the USS Nautilus, world's first atomic powered submarine, is presented to General Dynamics Corporation's Electric Boat Division at Groton, Conn. RADM. Milton E. Miles, Commandant, Third Naval District, makes the first presentation of the award to Carleton Shugg, Dynamics senior vice president. Award was given at commissioning of third A-sub Skate, seven months ahead of schedule.

New Housing Gets $94.4 Million "Go-Ahead" At 11 Army, Air Force & Marine Corps Bases

Eleven military bases got the green light this week to go ahead with the construction of 6,286 new family housing units at a cost of $94.4 million.

Six Army bases will get 3,111 units, four Air Force bases will get 2,075 units, and the Marine Corps Air Station, Beaufort, S. C., will get 1,100 units.

The biggest project will be started at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., where 1,329 units will be constructed at a cost of $21.6 million.

The largest Air Force project will involve the construction of 1,255 units at Homestead AFB, Fla., at a cost of $19.1 million.

The number of units, the cost of each project, and the location of the 11 projects to be constructed under the new authority are:

ARMY
Ft Bliss, Tex	490	$7,100,900
Ft Ord, Calif	900	$11,549,300
Yuma Test Station, Ariz	209	$3,305,278
Ft Monmouth, N. J.	120	$1,912,750
Ft Dietrick, Md	63	$1,025,700
Ft Leonard Wood, Mo.	1329	$21,648,000
AIR FORCE
Webb AFB, Tex	460	$6,435,600
Homestead AFB, Fla	1255	$19,191,750
Olmstead AFB, Pa	140	$2,245,500
Kingsley Air Field, Klamath Falls, Ore.	220	$3,484,600
MARINE CORPS
MCAS, Beaufort, S.C.	1100	$16,586,284

Funds for the construction were made available when President Eisenhower directed the Bureau of the Budget to release $107 million in "Fanny May" authorization which it had been withholding from the Armed Forces.

The Fanny May (Federal National Mortgage Association) authorization, which originally included $250 million for the military forces, was approved by the Congress last summer. It was set aside to be used by the military departments to help finance family housing which otherwise could not be constructed because of shortages of private capital.

The President previously had released $143 million of the amount.

His action in making the remaining Fanny May authority available to the Armed Forces will facilitate the rapid construction of the 11 projects listed above.

However, the release order exhausts all of the remaining Fanny May funds, and the Armed Forces have reported that private capital is no longer available for Capehart construction. This means the program will "dry up" with the completion of the 11 new projects unless Congressional action is taken in the new session to provide additional FNMA authority or increase the interest rate which private Capehart lenders can obtain on their loans.

Army Civilian Aide Gets "Satellite" Greeting

The writings and speeches made during the year by Mr. Charles E. Stevenson, of Kansas City, Mo., as Civilian Aide to the Secretary of the Army, won him one of the most unusual of Christmas greetings—a missile with satellite attached carrying greetings and the names of 2,500 employees.

Mr. Stevenson is Vice President of Hallmark Cards, Inc. At the holiday season the firm's artists make individual cards for the executives, fitting in with some of their hobbies.

The "missile," about three feet high, was topped by a "last stage" rocket which contained a small gold satellite. Attached to the satellite were more than 500 cards with the names of 2,500 employees written on both sides and a simulated newspaper article reporting that the tiny "Santnik" would "go into permanent orbit in the office of Mr. Charles E. Stevenson, emitting a stream of good will signals and season's greetings from all his friends at Hallmark."

VF-121 Receives First "Tiger"; 13 To Follow

The first of 14 new Grumman F1F-1 "Tigers" has been accepted by Cdr. Jack E. Godfrey, Commanding Officer, Fighter Squadron 121, based at NAS Miramar, Calif.

The "Tiger" is equipped with four 20mm cannons and can carry air-to-air and air-to-surface guided missiles.

Last year, while undergoing tests, a high-speed "Tiger" shot itself down by overtaking several rounds of 20mm ammunition 12 seconds after they had left the plane's guns.

B. L. Whelan, Vice-President of United Aircraft Corporation, has been re-elected chairman of the Helicopter Council, Aircraft Industries Association, for 1958. Jack Leonard, Manager of Cessna Aircraft Corporation's helicopter division, was re-elected vice chairman.

The nominating committee, headed by Don R. Berlin, President of Vertol Aircraft Corp., included Stanley Hiller, President of Hiller Helicopters, and Charles Kaman, president of Kaman Aircraft Corp.

At the time of the election General Orval R. Cook, USAF-Ret., President of AIA, informed the Council that effective 1 Jan, Don Ryan Mockler, a Hill & Knowlton executive assigned to AIA since 1944, would become a member of the AIA staff, continuing in his capacity as director of the Helicopter Council.

GOA Wants Money

For Overweight Goods

The General Accounting Office wants to collect money spent for packing and crating the household goods of military personnel in excess of the prescribed weight limits.

Packing of weights over authorized allowances has occurred, says Army Circular 33, both when the goods were packed by government facilities and where the services were performed by commercial firms.

The circular also admonishes post engineers and finance and accounting officers to exercise "greater care and diligence" in complying with applicable packaging and crating regulations.

Col. Hunker To Lowry

Col. Joseph F. Hunker, Deputy Chief of Staff for Installations at Headquarters Technical Training Air Force in Mississippi City, Miss., has been reassigned to Lowry AFB, Colo.

Colonel Hunker will assume the staff position of Inspector General at Lowry. The colonel, a native of West Point, Me., entered the military service as a Navy enlisted man in 1932. He enlisted in the Air Force in 1936 and was commissioned in 1937. He is a command pilot.

CDR. DANIELS, USN-RET., BONEFISH CHAMP

LCdr. Charles E. "Dan" Daniels, USN-Ret., shortly may be recognized by the International Game Fish Association as the world record-holder for bonefish taken on a 20-pound test line.

Commander Daniels, who retired in January 1951, after 30 years service in Naval communications, is manager of the Bang Bang Club at Pot Cay, Andros, Bahamas. The Bang Bang Club is owned by Col. H. S. Thorne, USAFR. On 24 November, Commander Daniels using spinning tackle landed a 33" bonefish with a 20" girth that weighed 15 pounds exactly.

The world record is 14 pounds for lines that test above 12 pounds. Commander Daniels was using crab as bait when he landed the record breaker (subject to line tests being made by the Association).

Another bonefish record holder is the famed golfer, Sammy Snead, who brought in a 15 pounder with a 12 pound test line at Bimini in 1953.

The Nassau Development Board plans to display Commander Daniel's fish in the airport there. His address is Box 1125, Nassau, Bahamas.

THE JOURNAL's part in the record claim? It's necessary to submit an affidavit to the International Game Fish Association. Commander Daniels came to our offices to have the document notarized. That's how we snagged the story and accompanying photograph.

Pentagon Red Tape Worm Perils Plan To Give Fighting Forces "Unified" Meals

CHANCES for enactment of a uniform ration allowance for the Armed Forces during the coming session of Congress are being jeopardized by Pentagon red tape.

The delay means that soldiers and airmen will continue to be fed different meals than those served to sailors and marines.

At present, the Army and Air Force use one ration, the Navy a second ration and the Marine Corps still a third.

More than 17 months have elapsed since a Department of Defense committee completed the exhaustive task of untangling the snarled military feeding problem. The committee agreed that steps should be taken to provide a ration which would be uniform throughout the Services.

The task force recommended legislation to put the new ration program into effect. The proposal was accepted by each of the Armed Forces, including the Coast Guard, which would operate under the new law in wartime.

Too Late In '56

The draft legislation then received the Defense Department's stamp of approval and was submitted to the Bureau of the Budget in August 1956.

But Congress already had gone home that year. The Budget Bureau later returned the plan to the Pentagon.

When the 85th Congress met in January 1957, the ration proposal was again kicking around the Pentagon corridors. Nine months later, the Congressmen prepared once more to leave for their homes. They still had not seen the proposed ration legislation.

Now, the second session of the Congress is gathering for its first meeting, and top Defense officials admit that the uniform ration proposal continues in the "preparation" stage. Spokesmen say it has not been included in the 1958 legislative package yet. But, they add, neither has it been ruled out. It is still being "coordinated."

All of the Services continue to agree on the plan. They say it is "acceptable" to them.

In addition, they have come up with new estimates which show that the plan will not cost any additional money. Originally it was estimated that it would take about $25 million to put the new ration law into operation.

Milk Input Up, Cost Down

Since then, however, the Services have reconsidered an important factor in the military feeding problem. Servicemen are drinking more and more milk. They are using on the average of a quart a day, per man.

The Armed Forces say this development will erase the earlier cost estimates because the Commodity Credit Corporation will continue to foot a large share of the military milk and butter bill.

So, as the proposal now stands, it is estimated it will not cost the taxpayers a cent. The Hoover Commission said the plan would, in fact, be an economy move.

The Services agree and they are willing to see the plan put into operation.

Only Defense Department red tape continues to prevent the draft legislation from going to Capitol Hill. Because of the extremely heavy program ahead in the election-year Congress, any delay during 1958 could badly damage the measure's chances for approval this session.

When and if the measure gets to the Capitol and is approved, this is what it will provide:

- In terms of on-the-table averages—more food that the Serviceman likes; more milk for every meal and meat at every breakfast.

- More eggs, more fruit (especially citrus fruit and citrus juices), and more vegetables (especially the yellow, green and leafy varieties).

- A sizeable cut in hot cereals.
- A slight reduction in sugar.
- A small increase in tomatoes, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

These changes are designed to give Servicemen meals which are more like those served in the average home.

Same For All Sought

The program will assure all Servicemen, cadets and midshipmen that they are entitled to the same minimum amount of food, both in type and quantity, regardless of their uniform.

It also is expected to improve morale by putting more acceptable meals on mess-hall tables.

And, it is designed to help the Armed Forces in their battle of the waistline.

The delayed legislation also will please Congressmen who receive daily complaints from constituents who say their sons are not getting the right kind of meals, or that they are receiving fewer calories than their cousin in another Service.

Pound More Food Daily

The proposal will establish a uniform ration for each of the Services, reduced to 16 general categories designed to give each Serviceman approximately five and one-half pounds of prepared food each day. This is almost a pound more than they now receive.

Special rations for military personnel engaged in operational missions will continue to be authorized by the individual Service Secretaries. This means that submarine crews, flight crews, men in combat or on maneuvers, and those operating in extreme climates will receive special or supplemental food.

Tax Rules Outlined For Retired

service, only so much of your pay as you would have received had your pay been computed solely on the basis of disability will be tax exempt. If you elected to have your pay computed on percentage of disability, your entire pay will be exempt from Federal taxation, even though your percentage of disability may be less than 50 percent.

Here is an example to illustrate Federal taxation of the pay of a member who was retired for disability but elected to have his retired pay computed in another manner:

A major with over 30 years active service is retired with a 60 percent disability. He elects to have his retired pay computed on the basis of his length of service, or \$444.60 retired pay. If $2\frac{1}{2} \times 30$ years (75%) \times \$592.80 (active duty pay of a major with over 30 years of service, or \$444.60 retired pay. If his retired pay had been computed on the basis of his percentage of disability, it would have been 60% \times \$592.80, or \$355.68. The difference between the two figures—\$444.60 minus \$355.68, or \$88.92 per month—will be subject to tax.

VA Pension or Compensation

If a compensable award is approved by the Veterans Administration, retired members of the Regular Army and members of the reserve components who were retired for disability may waive part of their retired pay to receive an equal amount of Veterans Administration compensation; any retired Army member may relinquish all his retired pay in favor of Veterans Administration compensation when the latter is the greater. Payment received from the Veterans Administration is tax exempt. This permits some retired members who are eligible to receive compensation or pension from the Veterans Administration to effect a tax saving.

If you were retired for length of service or age, all your pay received from the Army is subject to Federal income tax. Therefore, if you are eligible, it will benefit you to waive a part of your Army retired pay in favor of compensation from the Veterans Administration which will be tax exempt.

If you were retired for disability, you are less likely to effect a tax saving by waiving a part of your retired pay. In all probability, at least a portion of your Army retired pay is nontaxable, and a waiver of retired pay in favor of Veterans Administration pension or compensation applies first to the nontaxable portion of disability retired pay.

An example may help to make this clear: A Regular Army sergeant entitled to basic pay of $257.50 a month is retired after 24 years service and receives $154.50 monthly retired pay. Since the sergeant was retired with a 40 percent disability, $103 (40% \times $257.50) of his monthly retired pay is tax exempt. In order to make certain that his disability is on record with the Veterans Administration, the sergeant files a claim for disability compensation with the Veterans Administration. The Veterans Administration determines that the sergeant has a 40 percent service-connected disability incurred during wartime and therefore compen-sable at the rate of $73 a month.

The sergeant could waive $73 of his monthly retired pay and receive $73 monthly disability compensation from the Veterans Administration. The $73 a month which he received from the Veterans Administration would be tax exempt. However, the $73 would be waived from the nontaxable portion of the sergeant's Army pay, leaving him with $30 ($103 minus $73) nontaxable Army pay. Therefore, the sergeant would effect no tax saving by waiving a portion of his retired pay in favor of disability compensation.

State Taxation of Retired Pay

Retired pay is subject to State as well as Federal income tax.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, approved in 1940, provides that servicemen on active duty need not pay an income tax on their military pay to the State in which they are temporarily residing pursuant to military orders. Active duty servicemen still have a tax obligation to their State of permanent residence.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act does not apply to retired members. Therefore, you are liable to State taxation on the basis of your "domicile" (permanent or legal residence) or "residence" (temporary residence) or possibly both. For example, if you are actually residing in Virginia but continue to consider Minnesota as your legal residence, you have a tax liability to Virginia on the basis of your "residence" and to Minnesota on the basis of your "domicile."

Federal law bars the States from taxing payments made by the Veterans Administration. Thus, in all States disability payment or compensation received from the Veterans Administration is exempt from income taxation. Some States (but by no means all) exempt disability payments from the services from income taxation in the same manner as the Federal Government.

Some States exempt all or a portion of military pay for active or retired service from income taxation. No States permit a retirement income credit of the type granted by the Federal Government.

As questions of exclusion of all or a part of retired pay are dependent upon the specific statutes of the State concerned, it is advisable for you to consult with local tax authorities to determine your State tax liability.

Retirement Income Credit

As a retired member of the Armed Forces, you may be able to take advantage of the tax credit on incomes received under a public retirement system. The tax credit is discussed in Section III of the Retired Army Personnel Handbook (DA Pamphlet 600-5). A further discussion of the tax credit with added examples will appear in the January 1958 issue of the BULLETIN.
